

Assembly Sends State Budget Bill to Senate

Record Spending Measure Expected To Be Defeated

Madison —(AP)— A budget bill, calling for a record expenditure of $217,875,158 by Wisconsin in 1960-61 was headed for the senate today where it probably will die. The bill was passed by the Democratic-controlled assembly Wednesday 53-43 but it is certain to meet determined opposition in the Republican-controlled senate. It not only sets a record for spending in the second year of the biennium but it would make the total budget for the 1959-61 biennium in excess of $420 million, about $84 million more than provided for similar state services in the biennium ending last July.

Increased Deficit
The budget would boost the second year deficit to about $24,250,000 which has to be met by some new form of taxation.

Tax measures to meet this deficit have been introduced in the assembly but they too are expected to be rejected in the senate after the lower house approves them. One of the revenue bills provides for a withholding plan for collecting income taxes and the other an across the board increase in income tax rates. Both are sponsored by Democratic Gov. Gaylord Nelson.

The bill also permits the state to retain part of the tax paid on airplane gasoline to help pay the cost for local airport programs.

Cigaret and Tobacco Tax Plans Dropped

Madison —(AP)— Democrats controlling the assembly decided today to cut cigarette and tobacco tax proposals out of Gov. Gaylord Nelson's stopgap tax packages. The decision, made in a closed caucus, came shortly before debate began on the governor's once-defeated plan for withholding state income taxes. Democrats control the assembly, 55 to 45.

The withholding proposal is part of a $28,550,000 stopgap tax package given top priority by the governor. With the cigarette and tobacco tax provisions deleted, it would yield an estimated $25 million, enough to balance the budget.

Both stopgap packages contained three special tax provisions designed to raise $9,500,000 a year. They included a franchise tax on banks and saving and loan institutions, a 15 per cent tax on tobacco products, and a boost in the cigarette tax from 5 to 6 cents a package.

Defense Rests in Apalachin Case

New York —(AP)— The defense rested today in the 7-week trial of 20 men charged with conspiring to conceal the purpose of the Apalachin, N. Y., meeting of underworld figures and associates in 1957. None of the defendants testified.

U.S. Dist. Judge Irving R. Kaufman recessed the case until Monday, when defense attorneys will begin their summations. The prosecution will take Wednesday to present its summation.

Kaufman is expected to prepay the case to the jury of eight men and four women on Thursday.

Military Weakness Inspires Aggression, Ike Tells India

Waving and Shouting, Indians crowd near car bearing President Eisenhower and Indian Prime Minister

Nehru through New Delhi streets as Eisenhower arrived for a 5-day visit.

U. S. Ready to Come to Aid of Friends, He Says in Address to Parliament

BY JOHN SCALI

New Delhi —(AP)— President Eisenhower reminded India today that weakness in arms invites aggression and said a strong United States is ready to come to the aid of its friends.

He told the Indian parliament the United States is committed to a search for genuine disarmament but is maintaining strong forces against aggression and added: "They serve not only for ourself but our friends and allies, who, like us, have perceived this danger. They so serve for defensive purposes only."

The members of parliament applauded frequently, but there was not a sound when the president spoke of the fruits of weakness. With the threats of red China in mind, it was possible they were shaken by his remarks.

Nor was there any audible reaction when the president made clear American determination to provide adequate forces to resist aggression, though it seemed plain he was referring to the threat to India from red China. Eisenhower spoke to a joint session of the Indian parliament.

Indians Pleased With Speech

Leaders Convinced Basic U. S. Policy Aims at Peace

New Delhi —(AP)— A sampling of reaction in the halls of parliament indicated President Eisenhower's speech today was a hit.

Ashok Mehta, chairman of the praja (peoples) socialist party and one of India's leading intellectuals, said the speech showed that the United States and India "not only share the same ideals but also speak the same language."

Mehta and others remarked that Indian Vice President S. Radhakrishnan, in introducing Eisenhower, had touched on some of the same points the U.S. president later voiced. Eisenhower himself noted this.

Mehta said the speech "communicated to the Indian people an attractive image of America."

Quest For Peace
Frank Anthony, leader of the Anglo-Indian community, said he was impressed by Eisenhower's emphasis on "America's basic policy being the quest for peace, especially some kind of controlled disarmament."

A communist leader in parliament, Mrs. Renu Chakravarti, said: "It appears old Nikita's visit to the United States had had some effect, since Mr. Eisenhower's speech was definitely a departure from the old American outlook."

Infant Girl Dies in Kenosha Fire; Mother Suffers Serious Burns

Kenosha —(AP)— A 2-year-old girl died today and her mother expecting a second child soon, was seriously burned in a fire that destroyed their small frame home.

Firemen took Cynthia Tomlinson, 2, from her crib in the blazing 1-story home but the child was dead on arrival at a hospital. They had been called to the scene by the little girl's mother, Mrs. Sharon Tomlinson, 19, who had rushed from the burning home to a neighbor's house. Members of the fire department said that when they arrived at the scene, the home was burning fiercely and Mrs. Tomlinson was standing on the sidewalk screaming that her baby was inside.

Mrs. Tomlinson was hospitalized in serious condition. The mother, who was divorced, lived in the house with her mother and the child. Mrs. Tomlinson's mother had left for work at 7 a.m. and the fire was discovered about 8 a.m.

Rocks, Jeers, Catcalls

Violence Launched At Minnesota Plant

Albert Lea, Minn. —(AP)— Non-union production workers, their ranks looking thinner after yesterday's violence, reported at the Wilson and Company plant for work early today amid jeering, catcalls and an occasionally hurled rock from a picket line.

The activity was mild compared to yesterday's violent 2-hour siege by nearly a thousand massed pickets and sympathizers at the meat-packing plant gates. Workers were barred from leaving the plant by stone-throwing until police formed a protective cordon.

Apparently heeding the plea of law officials, only 150 pickets and sympathizers appeared this morning, including Charles Lee, president of Local 6, of the United Packinghouse Workers of America, whose members are involved in a work stoppage.

Rocks Thrown
An occasional rock sailed out of the early morning darkness as first workers' cars started arriving about 6:30 a.m. Jeers, catcalls, boing and cries of "scab," "scum," and "yellow belly," rose from the picket line as cars passed through the main gate, only entrance opened this morning.

The calls were punctuated by an occasional chunking sound as a rock struck a car. Some vehicles bore cracked

Worst Storm in Years Subsiding In North Europe

London —(AP)— Europe's worst storm in 23 years was blowing itself out today, leaving shattered ships and 100 dead in its wake.

But coast guardsmen, weary after a 5-day battle, warned the tempest might still have a deadly sting in its tail.

A little Dutch motor freighter sank in a collision in the Elbe estuary, some seamen remained in trouble and blinding blizzards blanketed parts of Scandinavia.

The toll in lives and shipping was the heaviest since the great blow of February, 1955, in which more than 200 died.

7 Still at Large

12 Felons Recaptured After Carolina Break

Ivy Bluff, N.C. —(AP)— Police in two states counted 12 of North Carolina's worst prisoners behind bars today, leaving seven still at large. The 12 surrendered without a struggle in Virginia and Ohio hardly 48 hours since escaping Tuesday from the Ivy Bluff maximum security prison here.

Meanwhile, a huge manhunt focused on an area 20 miles west of Roanoke, Va., where several of the escapees were believed surrounded. The FBI said Charles W. Stewart, one of the ring leaders in the daring breakout, may be in the pocketed group.

Taken on Highway
Local officers and the FBI, working in tandem, corralled eight of the original 20 in Virginia, seven yesterday and one this morning.

He was Robert Lee Council, 30-year-old Fayetteville, N.C., Negro who was serving 20-25 years for armed robbery. Council was taken as he walked along a highway near Rustburg, Va., 15 miles south of Lynchburg, about 70 miles north of Ivy Bluff.

Earlier, four others were captured in Cambridge, Ohio. One was taken Tuesday in North Carolina.

Still at large were Stewart, 52, Wilmington, N.C., serving 25 years for armed robbery and store-breaking; Johnny Miller, 26, Albemarle, N.C., 9 years for arson and manslaughter; John Kilborne, 34, Winston-Salem, N.C., 26 years for robbery with firearms and store-breaking; Wiley Cummings, 34, Winston-Salem, N.C., 15-20 years, breaking and entering and robbery; Woodrow Stewart, 36, Boone, N.C., 14-20 years,

U. S. Army Troops to be Withdrawn From Iceland

Air Force and Navy Make No Changes in Island Setup

Washington —(AP)— The defense department announced today that all U. S. Army troops will be withdrawn from Iceland.

Some 4,000 air force and navy men will remain. The force to be pulled out consists of any army battalion combat team of about 1,200 men.

The army troops will be redeployed during the first six months of 1960.

"Army units stationed in the United States will continue to maintain their capability for immediate deployment to Iceland in case of emergency," the headquarters said.

Won't Affect NATO

These emergency troops would be from the strategic army corps — units of the 82nd and 101st Airborne divisions from Ft. Bragg, N. C., and Ft. Campbell, Ky., and of the 4th Infantry division, Ft. Lewis, Wash.

An army spokesman said troops could be rushed to Iceland within hours if necessary.

The army said the transition is part of the normal re-evaluation of forces, and has been under consideration for two near Lynchburg, Va. 21 years.

Mother Slain in Fight Over Son

St. Louis —(AP)— A dispute over custody of a 7-year-old boy led to the fatal shooting yesterday of his mother. Police said a former father-in-law of twice-divorced Mrs. Geraldine Beeman has admitted that he killed her.

Mrs. Beeman, 24, was slain at her home in suburban St. John. Her son, Norman Nolting, Jr., was reported safe. Sheriff Melvin Starkey of Lincoln county said 63-year-old Fred Nolting of St. Louis county admitted the slaying from a hospital bed in Troy, Mo., about 65 miles northwest of St. Louis. Nolting was injured in an automobile accident and is in critical condition.

Name-Calling Argument

Sharp Clash in Badger Senate Over Delay on 2 Appointments

pointments by Gov. Gaylord Nelson kicked off a bitter name-calling debate today.

Most of the fire came from Sen. Robert Travis of Plattville, the GOP floor leader. Angered by the remarks of Sen. Carl Lauri, D-Superior, Travis labelled the Nelson administration the "worst in 40 years" and said it was in charge of "a Little Lord Fauntleroy in the east wing of Nelson's capital office."

Scores Appointments

Lauri had taken Sen. Leo O'Brien, R-Green Bay, to task in a floor speech for inaction on the appointments of Joe E. Nussbaum and David Carley, Nelson's choices to head the new department of state administration and resources development.

The appointments reached the senate more than a month ago and the required public hearings on the selections have not been scheduled by O'Brien's committee on governmental and veterans affairs.

Both posts require senate confirmation.

"I'd just as soon get Dave Carley up here and tell him what I really think of him," Travis shouted at Lauri. "I'd like to take those two guys apart and I'm going to," he added.

The GOP floorleader said his party had been patient with "the blundering administration" in office to this point but that if Democrats wanted to engage in a political fight "we're ready for you."

An earlier outburst set the stage for the name-calling. Speaking on a point of personal privilege, Sen. Clifford Krueger, R-Merrill, said he resented an assertion that he was "under the thumb" of the governor's office and that he would cast his vote for Nelson's withholding plan on income taxes.

Krueger attributed the remark to Robert Moses of Eau Claire.

Krueger's vote helped defeat the bill when it was introduced earlier in the session.

"I have not changed my mind on the subject," he said. "I have never been a stronger Republican in 14 years than I am today."

He said he would "not be brain-washed into anything," a procedure he described as a tool of the Democratic party and "its political hacks who have been let out of Washington."

Ailing Russian Sailor Taken Off Soviet Ship

Kodiak, Alaska —(AP)— A U. S. Coast Guard plane winged over the long Aleutian island chain last night carrying a sick Russian seaman to a hospital here.

The seaman was taken off a ship of the Soviet fishing fleet at a rendezvous at remote Dutch harbor, 630 miles west of here.

UN Calls for End To Red Repression

General Assembly Again Asks for Free Elections in North Korea, Soviet Withdrawal From Hungary

United Nations, N. Y., —The United Nations has called once more for an end to acts of repression against anti-Soviet Hungarians and for free elections in communist north Korea.

The 32-nation general assembly overwhelmingly approved resolutions yesterday containing the appeals. The communist bloc voted against both resolutions, which the reds are sure to disregard as they have similar ones in the past.

The mildly worried resolution on Hungary, approved 53-10 with 17 abstentions, deplored the "continued disregard by the Soviet Union and the present Hungarian regime of the general assembly's resolutions" adopted after the Soviet army crushed the 1956 Hungarian revolt.

Political Freedom
It asked Sir Leslie Munro of New Zealand, UN special representative on Hungary, to continue seeking implementation of the earlier resolutions. These demanded withdrawal of Russian military forces from Hungary and restoration of political freedom for the Hungarian people.

It also requested the Soviet Union and the Hungarian government to cooperate with Munro.

The language of the resolution—sponsored by the United States and 23 other nations—pointed out a desire not to check the thaw in relations between east and west representatives to the current general assembly. Last year's resolution condemned Russia and the Hungarian communist regime. But Soviet representatives said even this year's resolution would endanger the more friendly spirit generated by the meeting of President Eisenhower and Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev.

Not Voting
Not voting on the resolution were Finland and 16 nations of the Asian-African bloc: Afghanistan, Ceylon, Ethiopia, Ghana, Guinea, India, Indonesia, Iraq, Israel, Jordan, Lebanon, Libya, Sudan, Saudi Arabia, the United Arab Republic and Yemen. Morocco and Haiti were absent.

Meanwhile, the assembly's 9-nation credentials committee voted 7-2 for a U.S. proposal that the committee take no action on credentials presented by the Hungarian UN delegation. Russia and Afghanistan voted to accept the credentials.

Report Progress On Testing of Cranberries

Washington —The Cranberry industry representatives Wednesday reported to Secretary of Welfare Arthur S. Flemming on progress in their program to assure cranberries free of contamination. George C. P. Olsson, president of Ocean Spray Cranberries, Inc., said there was nothing else that could be said after meeting with Flemming.

Ambrose E. Stevens, executive vice president of the industry by private laboratories probably will bring the total to 42 to 45 million pounds. He said retail sales of cranberries and products through the Thanksgiving season had been off about 67 per cent in comparison with recent years.

Nobel Prizes Awarded Today At Stockholm

Sweden's King Does Presentation to 6; 4 From U. S., 2 Europe

BY CARL O. BOLANG
Stockholm, Sweden —King Gustav Adolf handed 1956 Nobel prizes, diplomas and gold medals to four Americans and two Europeans in the Stockholm concert hall today.

The winners, announced earlier this fall, shared in the richest cash awards ever distributed from interest on the trust fund set up by Alfred Nobel, the Swedish inventor of dynamite.

The checks this year in each category total $42,606, about $1,000 more than last year.

Winners Lauded
Before a white tie and evening dress audience of 2,000 specially invited guests, speakers lauded the winners: Medicine: Dr. Severo Ochoa, 54, of New York University's college of medicine and Dr. Arthur Kornberg, 41, of Stanford University, Stanford, Calif., who have synthesized two nucleic acids, basic chemicals of life, in research on heredity.

Physicists: Dr. Emilio Segre, 54, and Dr. Owen Chamberlain, 39, atomic scientists attached to the University of California at Berkeley, cited for their discovery of the antiproton, negatively charged protons that can annihilate ordinary matter found on earth.

1st Communist Award
Chemistry: Prof. Jaroslav Heyrovsky, 68, of the Prague University Polarographic Institute, who won communist Czechoslovakia's first Nobel prize for his invention of a new method of analyzing complicated substances in industry.

Literature: Italian Poet Salvatore Quasimodo, 58, whose lyrical work was described by Nobel committee as expressing with classical fire "the tragic experience of life in our times."

The 1956 Nobel Peace prize, given in Oslo, goes to Philip Noel-Baker, 70, British laborite statesman, Quaker and author for his decades of work for world disarmament. The laureates here sat in a row of high, red plush chairs facing the auditorium. They were presented after an opening speech by the president of the Nobel foundation, Birger Ekeberg, the earl marshal of Sweden.

Ocean Spray Cooperative, said the food and drug administration "has done a fantastic, simply fantastic testing job" in clearing berries. He spoke of clearance by FDA of 32 million pounds of fresh cranberries and cranberry products. The last figures given out by FDA showed clearance of 29,581,600 pounds.

Stevens said clearances for the industry by private laboratories probably will bring the total to 42 to 45 million pounds. He said retail sales of cranberries and products through the Thanksgiving season had been off about 67 per cent in comparison with recent years.

Kewaunee Man May Get Post

Madison —A 37-year-old former mayor of Kewaunee is apparently headed for confirmation by the state senate as Gov. Gaylord Nelson's nominee for a seat on the board of tax appeals.

Jerome Reinke, a World War II veteran who was wounded in action, was given a brief hearing before the state senate committee on labor and management Wednesday and found no opposition to his appointment to the job to succeed R. M. Schlabach, La Crosse, a former state senator. The committee is likely to report to the senate on the hearing next week, and a confirmation vote is expected to follow.

Nixon Appears To Have Strong Midwest Aid

Chicago Meeting Of GOP Leaders Measures Backing

Chicago —Vice President Nixon appears to have stronger midwest support for the Republican presidential nomination than Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, say several state GOP chairmen.

Assessing sentiment in their home states, some of the Republicans here for a meeting told newsmen Wednesday:

"Rockefeller will have to do a lot of catching up in Minnesota, and Minnesota is typical of the midwest,"—Edwin Viehman, Jr.

"Overwhelmingly Nixon" in Wisconsin—Claude J. Jasper.

Majority Pro-Nixon
"The vast preponderance of party workers and voters is pro-Nixon" in Ohio—Ray C. Bliss.

The party leaders said, however, that the New York governor is not completely without support.

Arley R. Bjella of North Dakota said there is "strong Rockefeller support and strong Nixon support" in his state but declined to assess the relative strength of either faction.

Scattered Support
Bliss said Rockefeller has scattered support in Ohio. Jasper and Viehman pointed out Republican organizations in their states plan cordial receptions for Rockefeller when he visits their states next week.

Rockefeller is making a series of trips around the country sampling his strength before making a definite announcement on whether he will seek the presidential nomination.

The Nixon vs. Rockefeller question has not yet appeared on the agenda of this meeting of the midwest and Rocky Mountain Republican state chairmen's association.

But delegates to the 22-state group indicated it has the No. 1 spot on the unofficial agenda. Viehman said Nixon gathered "an awful lot of personal support" with his hard campaigning in Minnesota's last election "which everyone knew was a lost cause."

The association is made up of chairmen from Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, New Mexico, North Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma, South Dakota, Utah, West Virginia, Wisconsin and Wyoming.

Heads for Mountains

Austin Young Escapes From Cuban Prison

Pinar Del Rio, Cuba —Hundreds of soldiers and pro-Castro peasants searched mountainous western Cuba today for American fugitive Frank Austin Young. Young escaped from the Pinar Del Rio army headquarters prison on Wednesday, less than 24 hours after a military tribunal gave him a 30-year sentence for counter-revolutionary activity against Fidel Castro's government.

The 38-year-old flier-of-fortune had boasted he would not serve more than 30 weeks of his sentence. Sergio Hernandez Reyes, a former Cuban soldier awaiting trial, made the break with the Miami. They got away by cutting a hole in their jail cell.

The pair presumably made a dash for the mountains in hopes of contacting anti-Castro elements active there. Maj. Jose Algibay, military district commander, told troops and civilians assisting in the search to "respect the lives" of the escapees if they found them.

Algibay said roadblocks had been thrown up throughout Pinar Del Rio province while military units moved into the mountain areas.

Police also were reported watching the U.S. embassy in Havana to prevent any attempt by Young to take refuge there. Army Commander Juan Almeida arrived at regiment headquarters Wednesday night to look into the escape, which was not discovered until a morning count of prisoners.

It was reported that several soldiers charged with guarding Young and Reyes had been placed under arrest.

Young, a native of Indianapolis, was among 38 persons tried by a military tribunal for operating in an armed band opposing Castro's regime.

He was sentenced Tuesday along with Peter John Lambton, a 24-year-old American national from Nassau, who received a 25-year prison term. The military prosecutor had asked the death sentence for Young.

3 Baltimore Doctors Now Can Rid Animal Of Strontium 90
Baltimore —Three Baltimore doctors have found a way to flush radioactive strontium from the bodies of animals.

Injections of harmless sulfates, common salts of sulfuric acid, do the trick, according to the three researchers at Johns Hopkins Medical school. If the sulfates work the same way in humans, the discovery could help save persons exposed to strontium radioactivity in laboratories, bomb tests or nuclear warfare.

The doctors say the injections boost excretion of strontium by 5 to 20 times the normal rate — before the strontium enters the bones. Strontium is one of the radioactive ashes in nuclear fallout.

Threats to Home Rule Pinpointed by Several Levels of Government

Single Out Growing Reliance on State and Federal Aid Programs

Madison —Representatives of several levels of state government today pinpointed trends they consider possible threats to Wisconsin's 35-year-old home rule amendment.

The amendment, added to the constitution in 1924, grants Wisconsin's municipalities greater self-government than cities and villages of most other states.

Gov. Gaylord Nelson singled out growing local government reliance on state and federal aids as a major threat.

Loses Power
"With the acceptance of each grant, a municipality loses some of its home rule power," he said. "Both state and federal governments impose conditions and standards regarding use of the money, and the local government has that much less to say about what is done locally."

Mayor Frank Zeidler of Milwaukee said home rule in effect restricts a city's authority to consolidate metropolitan area government. His city is the 14th largest under home rule in the U.S.

What Is Needed
"What is needed," he said, "is for the state to use its authority to consolidate the numerous governments in a metropolitan area into one government and to grant that government broad home rule powers."

The Wisconsin amendment provides that cities and villages have full control of their local affairs with the legislature limited to passing laws of statewide concern.

Proponents of home rule contend it reduces legislative interference in local affairs and results in election of high-caliber local officials empowered to do more than rubber stamp state level decisions.

The League of Wisconsin Municipalities, a leading home rule exponent, indicated it is not alarmed by present trends. The organization has been active in home rule court cases which can broaden or restrict local power through interpretation of the amendment.

One decision the league has singled out as a blow to home rule held that setting salaries of city policemen is a proper legislative function.

Former Head of Longshoremen Freed of Fine
New York —Joseph P. Ryan, former president of the International Longshoremen's association, has been freed of a 6-year-old embezzlement indictment.

The 74-year-old Ryan, now ailing, was accused in 1953 of embezzling $48,187 from proceeds of the official IILA Journal between November 1948 and October 1952. A 1954 trial ended in a jury deadlock.

In general sessions court Wednesday, Asst. Dist. Atty. Francis X. Clark said he doubted a retrial would result in a conviction. Clark cited "the dimming recollection of witnesses" and Ryan's "advanced age and apparent senility."

Judge John A. Mullen then dismissed the charges. In 1956, Ryan was slapped with a $2,500 fine and received a suspended sentence on a conviction of violating federal labor laws in connection with acceptance of a bribe.

Charlie Deluged by Epitaphs, So He Keeps Right on Reporting Same

BY CHARLES HOUSE
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

The customers persist in sending in unusual epitaphs and I base coward that I am — will persist in using them here. In the following, brought to me by my own son, Donald, 9, was cribbed — he swears — from his spelling book:

Why guard your health?
Be careless and free.
Nothing can happen to ghosts like me.
Here lies one who always took a dare;
He either had no loved ones,
Or else he didn't care.

This, writes a customer, was on a grave in England though he forgets exactly where:

The wretched man who moulders here
Cared not for soul or body lost.
But only wept when death drew near
To think how much his tomb would cost.

One would believe that self-written epitaphs would at least contain a reasonable amount of conceit. It is nearly unthinkable that a man would write for himself an unkind epitaph. Yet, at Seville, Spain, one Bizentalo wrote one for himself. It appears on his grave to this day:

Here repose the bones
Of the Wickedest man in the world.
God Forgive Him.
Don Miguel Manara Bi-
Died 1664

Occupational epitaphs seem to be in plenty, too but I cannot prove they are to be seen on tombstones. They come from either a collection, or from the inventive mind, of a reader. Thus:

On a photographer:

life.

On an actress yclept Oldfield:

This we must in justice give to her shade:
It's the first bad exit
Madame Oldfield ever made.

On a coroner:

He lived and died
By suicide.

On a baker:

Throughout his life he kneaded bread
And deemed it quite a bore.
But now he lies beneath earth's crust;
And he needeth bread no more.

On a music teacher:

Stephen and time are now both even;
Stephen beat Time, now

Time's beat Stephen.

On a brewer:

Poor John Scott is buried here

Though he was once both hale and stout.

Death placed him on his bitter bier,

But in another world he hops about.

On a sculptor:

Here lies a finished art-

I crossed the seas till I was tired

To find some port I long desired.

Of rocks and shoals I had much fear

And so, for peace, I've anchored here.

On an inventor:

Here was a man of inventions great

Better than all whom he lived nigh.

But he could not invent a way to live

When God called him to die.

On an attorney:

Beneath this stone and

Lies Lawyer John McGill

By lies, when alive, this attorney did thrive

And now that he's dead

he lies still

On a money lender:

Here lies old twenty-five percent.

The more he had the more he lent.

The more he had the

more he gravely

be saved?

On a dentist:

View this gravestone

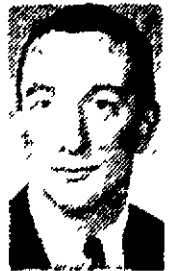

with some gravity.

Lawrence Senior Teaches French In City Schools

(This is another in a series of stories on new Appleton teachers.)

Robert Bergmann, 21-year-old Lawrence college senior, is a part-time teacher of elementary French in Appleton public schools this year.

Bergmann was born in Wauwatosa, but moved to Missouri as a child. He entered the University of Wisconsin in 1955 and transferred to Lawrence in 1957. He is majoring in French and minoring in German and English and will graduate in January. He enjoys sports and reading and hopes to travel in Europe to discover for himself the things about which he teaches.

Early Bar Closing Urged for Yule

The Outagamie County Tavern League has gone on record favoring 6 p.m. tavern closing hours on Christmas eve.

Members attending a meeting at Five Corners also discussed fund-raising plans for the Plamann school for retarded children. It was decided tavern owners would make private donations and the first donations were taken.

Non-league members who wish to donate to the proposed school may contact the league office at 117 S. Appleton street.

The Constitutional Ban on State Debt Remains

The Wisconsin Senate voted 19 to 12 to kill Gov. Nelson's proposal to permit the state to go into debt to the extent of 1 per cent of the equalized property value of the state for the purpose of constructing state buildings. The action was taken when 18 Republicans and one Democrat voted to kill the measure while 11 Democrats and one Republican supported it.

The Wisconsin Constitution permits an emergency debt of $100,000. This limited amount of borrowing has never been a factor in the financing of state operations. It was evidently put there for use in emergency at a time over 100 years ago when $100,000 was regarded as a large sum of money. Thus Wisconsin has had the reputation of financing its operations on a pay-as-you-go basis.

In recent years, however, the state has been unable to finance its huge building programs out of current revenues. Because of the constitutional ban on borrowing the state has found it necessary to finance building operations through so-called dummy corporations set up merely for the purpose of borrowing money. If the state needs a university dormitory, as an example, the state financing corporation borrows the money against the expected revenue from the dormitory rental. In the case of a state office building the same process might be followed with the state agreeing to rent the building at an amount sufficient to pay the interest on the debt and retire the bonds.

This form of financing has been very successful. The state has been able to get the money it needs without putting the "full faith and credit" of the state behind the bonds. Thus it is quite apparent that the state's claim to being debt-free and on a pay-as-you-go basis is fiction.

While the vote was largely on party lines, there is a possibility that the Senate acted in line with the majority opinion in the state. The argument for the amendment is that the money could be borrowed at a lower interest rate with the full faith and credit of the state behind the loan. Nevertheless many citizens believe that the present method of financing acts as a deterrent to borrowing.

The necessity for going through the building corporations offers a check on the need for the construction. Obviously investment companies are very much interested in knowing that the project will pay off in rental, and when they put their approval on the loan there is an indication that the building will be useful and will in fact bring in sufficient revenue to pay the loans. This is more important in the case of buildings to be rented to individuals such as dormitories, but in general the same rule applies to all construction, even that used by the state for office purposes.

The saving of even a fraction of one per cent in interest on the huge amounts the state must borrow for construction purposes would be a large amount and well worth saving. However, as the discussion in the Senate indicated, many senators fear that changing the Constitution would appear to somehow sanction borrowing and thus encourage spending beyond the present limits. The decision was not business-like nor scientific. It was purely political, but it is probably in line with the thinking of most citizens of Wisconsin.

Here's Your Chance to Save a Life

Wisconsin motorists have an opportunity to set the best highway safety record since 1951. All they have to do is exercise ordinary caution during the remaining weeks of December.

Dan F. Schutz, safety director of the Wisconsin Motor Vehicle department, is calling on all Wisconsin motorists to do what they can to keep the highway death toll below 800 for this year. At the beginning of this week, after a disastrous weekend, the highway death toll in Wisconsin stood at 760 or just two below the 1958 figure for the state for the same date. To beat the 1951 record, therefore, it will be necessary to hold the death toll under 48 during the next four weeks.

Schutz points out that 93 per cent of all drivers think they are better than average. He adds that if they were really that good they could certainly reduce the number of accidents and save a great many lives.

But without arguing with the motorists as to their ability, he offers some tips to help them beat their previous records during the next four weeks. He suggests that first of all they obey the speed limits. That's one of the most important safety rules but it is insufficient for winter driving since Schutz suggests that when the condition of the pavement or visibility make legal speeds hazardous it is wise to slow down. He has many other rules such as to keep the windshields and windows clear; keep the windshield wipers, lights, brakes and tires in good condition; use snow tires, carry tire chains or keep a pail of sand and a shovel in the trunk; maintain a greater interval between cars with room to stop on icy pavement; signal turns electrically or by hand so that motorists won't have to guess; watch carefully for pedestrians who may come out suddenly from behind parked cars; and finally, use the brakes gently, pumping instead of stamping on them on slippery roads.

It may be noticed that the rules given cover the ordinary things that all good motorists do. Yet it is necessary to repeat them because an occasional piece of negligence may cost a life. During the past weekend three persons lost their lives when the cars in which they were riding left the highways and struck trees. The only conclusion is that the drivers were going too fast for the condition of the pavement. They may have been within the legal posted speed limit but that did not help them where the road was newly coated with ice.

Thus it appears that Wisconsin motorists can set a new safety record by following the ordinary precautions which all of them know but not all of them obey.

Kind Words of Pen

Ever since Charles Dickens visited the United States and found it woefully wanting intellectually and culturally, Americans have suffered under a country-cousin complex. But now an 84-page tabloid section of the London Times literary supplement says it just isn't so.

"The flowering of the American imagination has been the chief event in the sphere of living art since the end of the First World War," say the Times editorial. Articles on various subjects from William Faulkner to automobile tail fins burble about "the scattering abundance of creative richness, the relentless competitiveness in any given field, sheer craftsmanship, the mastery of varieties of technical skill, the remarkable expertness of American poets."

"We in Europe take the vitality of the arts in America so much for granted that we seldom pause to assess it for the remarkable phenomenon that it is . . . The American imagination has become the most powerful stream of western thought and culture."

Now that we are acceptable in drawing rooms and intimate concerts it may be that the striving to impress Europe will reduce the effectiveness of American creative abilities. But it's nice to hear the praises anyway.

What Others are Saying

Ghost Writing, TV Scandals Quite Alike

From the Chicago Tribune

With all the unburdening of consciences in the television quiz show business, a good many politicians have taken advantage of the opportunity to voice noble sentiments about the evils of deceiving the public. Even the president wants to stop what he calls "these astonishing deceptions."

Perhaps, as some of these gentlemen listened to their fine words, they may have detected a slight murmur on the part of their own consciences. If it is wrong for Mr. Van Doren to deliver ghost written responses on television, is it proper for politicians to deliver ghost written speeches on television, or anywhere else?

There is a difference, of course, but it seems to be in degree rather than in kind. The television producers went to great extremes to assure listeners that the contestants had not been coached. Politicians don't go that far, but one whose speeches are ghost written is quite willing to let his listeners assume, as they normally would, that the wisdom he is spouting is his own. He says nothing to suggest otherwise such, for example, as giving credit to "my ghost writer, John Smith, for whatever intelligence this speech contains."

Few people are aware of the deception except the ghost writer and a few of the speaker's close friends who know he couldn't possibly speak that sensibly, articulately or grammatically. Ghost written speeches probably haven't been common for very long. There is nothing to suggest that Daniel Webster and Henry Clay didn't write their own famous speeches. William Jennings Bryan spoke extemporaneously, and we assume we are not the victims of fraud when we quote Patrick Henry or Thomas Jefferson. Nor, we suppose, would these gentlemen have posed as the creator of anything they did not write.

It may be true, perhaps, that today's political candidate would find himself in trouble without his retinue of ghost writers. He might make mistakes. He might get caught saying one thing one place and the opposite some place else. He might expose his ignorance. He might, if people knew him as he really was, even be defeated.

Would that be a calamity?

Old Rear Engine Put on Display

Milwaukee — A rear engine automobile built in Detroit 25 years ago has gone on display at the Brooks Stevens Automotive Museum here.

A Boston syndicate hired R. C. Hoffman, an automotive engineer, to develop the auto with the hope that three of the major companies of the mid-1930s would combine and produce it.

The car, powered by an X-8 cylinder engine, was first driven in Detroit on Aug. 7, 1935. But the four-door 179-inch auto was the only one of its kind built. Stevens says the auto industry apparently decided the public wasn't ready for a rear-engine car in those days.

Lobbyists Curtailed by New Law But Remain Fixture at Madison

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison — It has been the habit of this department to provide a report occasionally on the activities of members of the "third house" of the legislature, as the colloquial speech has it — the lobbyists who hover about in the interests of a variegated clientele.

The first matter to report is that the lobbyist has not disappeared, whatever might have been the impression created by the enactment of the stern lobbying control act with its fearsome penalties at the insistence of former Gov. Vernon W. Thomson at the close of the 1957 legislature.

The methods of many of the lobbyists have been changed, but they are prospering as well as at any other time as far as the naked eye can observe. Indeed, the kind of business in which this legislature promises to be engaged in the weeks ahead will bring more lobbyists with more resolute purpose to the ante-chambers than in most of the recent legislative sessions.

The tax proposals of the Nelson administration are numerous, comprehensive and controversial. The interests involved, whose welfare will be affected adversely as they believe, can be expected to mount a lobbying offensive of some size as a consequence.

HOW IT GOES

The task of the lobbyists has become more difficult as the years have passed, and especially since the 1957 act. He is prohibited, for all practical purposes, from social intercourse with the lawmakers. He cannot invite them to lunch or dinner or to have a drink, or even take them to a movie or a basketball game.

He is being watched by a hostile press, and by a suspicious administration. Witness the succession of angry blasts from the executive office about the so-called "billboard lobby." He cannot get on the floor of the legislative chambers, except as such times that there are no legislators likely to be found there. His lot is a hard one, indeed, when compared with the free and easy fashions of earlier decades.

There were those cynics who believed, or pretended to believe, that the social relations of the lobbyists and those legislators who formerly enjoyed their company would not be halted by the new spending control laws adopted two years ago, but would merely be hidden and disguised, driven underground, so to speak.

Yet those observers who maintain a reasonably close watch around town report there is no reason to believe that anything like that has resulted.

What has resulted has been a considerable decline in spending in the night clubs, to the discomfort of some of the proprietors, and the elimination of any excuse the lobbyists might once have had for filing fat expense accounts with their employers and their clients.

A FIXTURE

But the lobbyist will remain as a fixture of the political system. Inevitably the multitude of special economic and social and political interests will need his services as governmental affairs grow more complex and the umbrella of governmental services and functions is constantly expanded. His tribe will increase as ever more citizens become aware that they have a stake in what is going on in Madison, that they can act collectively with far more effect than as individuals, and that collective action is more persuasive when it is entrusted to the care of an experienced and technically skilled agent.

The idea of the lobbyist continues to dismay many persons who have an idealistic, town meeting conception of the functioning of government in a democracy.

But the phenomenon is as natural, as inevitable as the politician's glad hand, and a good deal more useful. There is scarcely a man or woman of representative type in Wisconsin who isn't represented by a lobbyist on some issue, at some time, in some legislative term.

Khrushchev Seeks to Ape U. S. Policies

From the Asheville Citizen-Nikita Khrushchev, the Russian boss, loves attention and moves into the limelight whenever he can.

He found, on his visit to America, that contact with the press was a first-class way to get his name and picture in the newspapers. Perhaps he noted, too, the way President Eisenhower holds press conferences. At any rate, word from Moscow is that he has warmed to a suggestion that he hold regular news conferences. He said he may do so once a month or quarterly.

Copying American ways is no rare thing for the Russians.

Though the political systems are vastly different, America's productive capacity appears to be a standard by which Russians judge themselves. Khrushchev himself tells us quite often that Russia is going to catch up with America.

Looking Backward

Home Talent to Give 'Octoroon'

79 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for the week of Dec. 11, 1880.

The Appleton Dramatic Association will perform "The Octoroon" for the first time in this city on Wednesday evening next at Bertschy Hall. This play is a picture of real plantation life in Louisiana just before the Civil war.

It abounds in thrilling but life-like scenes that keep the interest unflagging to the end. Several Negro melodies are given in its progress in excellent style.

The Editor of the Crescent has attended the rehearsal of the play, and begs to say to the good people of Appleton that our home talent will render the play in as attractive style as any of the traveling dramatic troupes that visit our city.

25 YEARS AGO
Thursday, Dec. 6, 1934

The return of Professor Raymond Moley to the right hand of President Roosevelt was reliably reported but thus far there were no indications that other erstwhile "brain trusters" were on the way back to their former place in the New Deal.

A referendum submitted by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States to obtain an expression on continuation of the NRA or similar business regulations was studied by the special referendum committee of the Appleton chamber.

Alarmed at the prospect of a close understanding between France and Germany, Soviet Russia asked France not to conclude any special political accord with another nation pending the fate of the projected pact of eastern European countries.

Mrs. Effie Eberhart was elected noble grand of Deborah Rebekah lodge at Odd Fellows hall.

Report on Darwin Centennial Brings Other Viewpoints

Editor, Post-Crescent:

Mr. Leonard Wells' letter discussing evolution and population problems was a very orderly, well developed thing. One could envy him being so emancipated from all superstitions of the supernatural, taking matters of the universe into his own hands to form the "brave new world." My envy fades, however, when I remember that after he has lived out his allotted 69 years (average U. S. life span) if there is no hereafter, he must lose his own identity and return to the earth. He can never find comfort in the old superstition that the limitless universe may exist for our delight after death.

Let's put religion aside, however, and turn the cold, bright light of science on the subject. Are these men whom Mr. Wells quotes being completely objective or are they merely using isolated, theoretical figures to make a point? May I quote some angles that they did not consider, from a paper written by a man who won his doctor's degree on the subject of population expansion — Dr. Anthony Zimmerman. "The present annual population growth rate has now reached 1.6 per cent. At the present rate, there would be standing room only in 730 years. The calculation is not valid, however, because the 1.6 per cent annual increase rate cannot last long. Most of it will drop off within 50 or 100 years, unless something very unexpected happens. The reason for this is quite simple: most of the present population gains are coming from the fact that people are living longer lives than formerly. But they cannot lengthen average life spans beyond a certain point, say 70-80 years or even more. When death finally catches up with more people, the population explosion will subside." He further goes on to say that it is estimated that more than two-thirds of the population expansion is a result of expanding life cycles — people are living longer. Less than one-third of the expansion is due to surplus births.

Since theorizing how to control births has entered politics and become a favorite indoor sport, may I add the following suggestions. 1. Let mothers return to the natural custom of breast feeding infants so that births will occur at greater intervals. 2. Reduce the abnormal social emphasis on sexual instincts so as to discourage early marriage and stimulate less illegitimate births. 3. Stop subsidizing women who give birth to one illegitimate child after another by paying them Aid to Dependent Children. 4. It is estimated that there are about 66,000 "test tube" babies in the United States. Let's stop artificial insemination. 5. Increase the animal protein in the diet in underdeveloped countries. Lack of this food element results in a fatty degeneration of the liver. In consequence, the androgens and estrogens are not eliminated from the system normally, and abnormal fertility may occur.

There is one more suggestion for reducing the population which I do not recommend. However, if there is no supernatural power to inflict us with a conscience and moral law, the soundest way to a vigorous human race and economy would be to dispose of all non-working adults over a certain age. This would eliminate the need for taxing the young to provide security for the aged and the money could be used for subsidizing more scientists like Messrs. Wells and Huxley so they could improve the Universe.

Another quote from Dr. Zimmerman and a fearful warning: "A further consideration should make Westerners and Christians very cautious about promoting birth control within their own ranks. Their part of the human race has already advanced farther along the road of aging than have the Asians and Africans. The Westerners have already exploited very much if not most of the growth to be expected from expanding life cycles. Therefore they were increasing faster than Asians and Africans for the past century and a half. Now the tide has turned in favor of the Asians, who are coming into the full flush of expansion. Africans will probably follow them shortly as civilization advances. Western growth is waning. By birth prevention practices the West bends over backwards to surrender more ground to the non-Christian world." The latest issue of a national news magazine states that Red China is encouraging births in every way possible. Do you realize, Mr. Wells that your fear-inspiring predictions are only taken to heart by some of the better elements of our population — people who should be keeping the balance of their education and culture going?

Editor, Post-Crescent:

In this column, recently, Leonard Wells quoted Sir Julian Huxley; "In the evolutionary pattern of thought there is no need or room for the supernatural."

Now I am not a scientist, philosopher, historian or theologian. I do know this: it behooves every literate man to question any authoritative pronouncements. Why? Because I would be resentful should an occasion arise wherein the state may require such beliefs of me. And this has happened in every era where nations succumbed to the wills of their leaders, aided and abetted by the greatest scientific minds of the day, and ended in self-destruction. By the same token, I do not wish a state to prescribe to me the manner in which I may worship. I am still, you might say, a little superstitious in believing in the Supernatural. I have found it necessary for direction.

Some philosophers hold that — "we are here because of ourselves. Any answer other than this is simply an ascription to the God-fable concocted by man." Where is the mind so great that can hold the thesis that anything "unprovable or untestable is without foundation?" The "minding" theory is still conjecture. But it is said that this sets us apart from the monkey.

For ages man has believed in a God or Gods and through revelation a religion has slowly evolved. It elevated man to the highest feelings of compassion for one another. If you point to the religious wars you may doubt this. But, in truth, much reporting should also be doubted. You will find that journalism, even today, is not wholly impartial. Today's political campaigns, recent wars, and other events are a mixture of sensationalism, fact, fancy and fiction. It isn't enough to say, "I'm from Missouri — show me!" All of us have an obligation to search for the truth.

He thinks it would be a sad commentary on the human race should the day come, when the monkey evolves a religion of his own, and relegates us to a kingdom more inferior than that of monkeydom. Then, instead of scratching our heads, we may find ourselves scratching elsewhere.

Burglar Gets Cash From School Safe

Weyauwega—Burglars missed the proceeds of the Weyauwega basketball game Tuesday night but stole from $10 to $15 from the Weyauwega Union High school safe, Police Chief Kenneth Thompson says.

Thursday, Dec. 10, 1959 Appleton Post-Crescent A13

The game proceeds had been deposited in the bank before the burglar broke a corner window on the east side of the school and made his way to the boiler room to pick up tools with which he broke open the vault safe in the superintendent's office. Chief Thompson reconstructed the burglary from evidence at the scene. The break-in was discovered at 6:45 a.m. today by Janitor Arthur Paschke. The sheriff's office is assisting Thompson in the investigation.

Officials inspect the portable kerosene heater which gave off deadly carbon monoxide fumes and killed Joseph Knipp, 63, in his 1729 W. Commercial street home. Left to right are Police Chief Walter J. Hendricks, Fire Chief Paul Neumann pointing to the heater wick, police identification Sgt. Norbert Lathrop and Coroner Bernard H. Kemps. Knipp was found Sunday, about a day after he died in his small home. The kerosene heater was nearly empty and when Kemps lighted it Tuesday it gave off strong fumes. It was standing near the head of the bed, next to which Knipp was found.

Eating Lunch or Not, Hunter Was Hunting, Court Decides

A hunter who last week told the judge he was just eating lunch, not hunting, has admitted he was hunting circumstances under which and was fined $50. Municipal Judge Oscar J. Schmieg also returned the gun of Casimer Kwasny, 59, Green Bay.

Last week, Judge Schmieg expressed amazement that Kwasny, could have been hunting if, in truth, he was just sitting by his car eating lunch Nov. 23 in the town of Bovina.

Conservation wardens had charged Kwasny with hunting within 200 feet of a lettered highway. Kwasny admitted his shotgun was loaded, but said he was eating lunch. He tried to plead guilty to the charge last week, but Judge Schmieg wouldn't let him. "I don't know enough facts about the case," the court explained, "to let you plead guilty."

Today, after an investigation by Dist. Atty. George Geisich and conservation wardens, the court was told that Kwasny indeed was eating lunch, but he also was motioning to a group of hunters about 200 feet away and another group was driving deer from a wooded area. Judge Schmieg accepted the guilty plea after this information. He added that seldom has a case generated such interest, commenting that many persons wrote

Courthouse To be Closed On Saturdays

Offices in the Outagamie county courthouse will be closed on Saturdays from now on, the board of supervisors agreed Tuesday. The program will take effect this Saturday.

Previously the offices were open for a half-day each Saturday but manned by a reduced staff.

The extra closing time will be compensated for by opening each office at 1 p.m. instead of 1:30 p.m. daily, as in the policy now. This part of the change, however, will not take place until Jan. 1.

After that date courthouse office hours will be from 8:30 a.m. to 12 noon and from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Surveys indicate, the board was told, that as much business will be transacted during the extra half hour at mid-day as was done during the half-day openings on Saturdays.

Green Bay Dial System Changed

A second central telephone control center was opened in Green Bay Sunday, necessitating a 7-digit dialing system.

Green Bay also added a Gypsy exchange. All Green Bay numbers must now be dialed with the exchange as well as the five digits, it was explained.

Appleton was unaffected by the change. If a second central control center were established here it would be necessary to dial the exchange as well as the five digits. No such center is planned.

Madison Mayor Asks Support of New Bill Involving Annexation

Madison Mayor Ivan A. Nestigen is circulating a letter to mayors of state cities asking support for an annexation bill pending before the legislature.

The bill would permit cities to reject attachment of outside school districts to the city school system if the outside area refused annexation for all purposes.

The measure is necessary to prevent an "iron ring" of contented suburbia from surrounding major state cities, Nestigen said.

Early Detection Best Way to Cure Cancer

Dr. Parkin Lectures at AVS, Describes Diagnosis, Causes, Cures of Malignancies

Despite the advance of research, the best way to assure a cancer cure still is early detection. Dr. Robert C. Parkin, assistant to the dean of the University of Wisconsin Medical school, told a class in rudimentary medicine at the Appleton Vocational school Tuesday night. "We can cure cancer to-day, if we get to it before it begins to spread," Dr. Parkin said. Discussing cancer is important, he declared, to dispel fears about its deadliness. "We know very little about it still but if we can make available some of things we do know perhaps we can dispel some of these fears," he said. Dr. Parkin called the spreading process "metastases." Metastases occurs when cancer cells get into the blood stream and invade tissue elsewhere in the body.

Single Cell Start
All cancers, however, originate in a single cell in some part of the body. "All of a sudden," he explained, "a liver cell ceases to perform liver cell functions and becomes a cancer cell. But we don't know why."

When a liver cell becomes cancerous, it gives up liver functions and gains the ability to invade and destroy surrounding cells. Sometimes the surrounding cells win out and the cancer cell is defeated, the doctor said. But when this does not happen, the cancer cell multiplies and a sturdy growth has started.

At this earliest stage, complete cure is usually possible. Dr. Parkin declared. "We must cut it out along with some surrounding tissue to make sure we've got it all."

Metastases Explained
But too often metastases takes place before surgery can be performed, he said. Metastases happens when a cancer cell invades and destroys the wall of a nearby blood-vessel. It multiplies along the vessel wall, forming a lump, which eventually is broken off by the pressure of the blood stream and carried somewhere else in the body.

If a person follows the seven guideposts for detecting cancer and visits his doctor regularly, the cancer frequently can be caught before metastases sets in. Dr. Parkin explained. At this point, one symptom usually is apparent and treatment can start.

But once metastases starts, a whole galaxy of symptoms can occur, confusing both doctor and patient, he said.

Danger Signals
The danger signals include a lump or sore that doesn't disappear, hemorrhages from the throat or rectum, persistent backache in males, chronic indigestion and gradual loss of weight, bony skin growths especially on the face, lumps on the breasts, bloody discharge with the urine and a persistent cough.

If an individual notices any of these signs, he should see his doctor immediately. Dr. Parkin said. The doctor then will begin a series of appropriate tests, ranging from biopsies of the tissue to X-rays. If the tests prove cancer is present, treatment is started.

Three treatments are possible. They are surgery, various types of rays and radioisotopes. The rays include X-rays and beta rays. Radioisotopes involve using a radioactive material by sending it to the cancerous organ. Radioactive iodine, for instance, can destroy cancer in the thyroid gland. Sometimes combinations of treatments are used.

Eventually, Dr. Parkin said, doctors hope a drug will be developed to destroy cancers chemically. Already one drug has had some effect on leukemia, which may or may not be a cancerous condition, he said. But the drug still is a long way from perfection.

Phone Company Honors Employee

Robert F. Biesman, 4813 E. Wisconsin road, has been honored by the Wisconsin Telephone company on his 30th anniversary as a telephone employee. Biesman is a test-board man.

Biesman started his telephone career in 1929 in the plant department at Oshkosh. He was transferred to Marinette and came to Appleton in 1930.

He is a member of the board of directors of the Appleton baseball club and a member of the Fox Valley council of the Telephone Pioneers of America, an organization of men and women who have been engaged in telephone work for 21 or more years.

Ravine Owners Won't Dicker With Realtor

Owners of the Packard street ravine won't dicker sale price with a realtor appointed by the city. Ald. Al. H. Stoegbauer reports.

"They want to deal directly with the city, not talk with a real estate man," said Stoegbauer.

The board of public works has expressed interest in buying the ravine land to extend Franklin street across the ravine and create some 630 parking stalls on both sides of the new street.

Board members, somewhat puzzled on how to proceed in contacting the owners, have asked for a meeting with representatives of Appleton Board of Realtors next week to determine whether one of them can be named for the city in calling on the landowners.

Stoegbauer Tuesday also told the public safety committee that the owners have met and agreed that if one owner is dissatisfied with the price or what the city will do with the land, all unanimously will oppose sale.

Plan Course in Credit Union Management

A credit union management course will be offered by the Appleton Vocational and Adult school, school director Carl Bertram says.

Bertram said there are at least 45 companies in the Fox Cities area with credit unions and "there should be a rather effective interest in the course."

There are four courses with six sessions in each available. Tentative plans would make two courses available per year. Definite starting dates have not been set. A course outline would include classes on credit union accounting, law, promotion and advertising, budgeting, and dealing with borrowers. Bertram said. Personnel from the University of Wisconsin department of commerce will conduct the courses.

A certificate will be awarded to those who complete the course. It is open to residents of Appleton, Neenah, Menasha, Kaukauna and Kimberly.

Other courses under consideration are eight sessions on business management for businesses employing less than 500 people, a course in the analysis of financial statements by non-financial executives, and a course on the effects of recent labor legislation on business and industry.

Eisenhower got his biggest hand when, his voice rising strongly, he declared:

"In the name of humanity can we not join in a 5-year or 50-year plan against mistrust and misgivings and fixation on the wrongs of the past? Can we not apply ourselves to the removal or reduction of the causes of tension that exist in the world?"

"All these are creations of government, cherished and nourished by governments.

FCC Control Of TV Asked

Civil Liberties Group Urges Request Made to Congress

Washington — (U) — The American Civil Liberties Union today urged the Federal Communications Commission to ask congress for authority to regulate radio and TV networks.

The FCC now has no direct supervision over the networks, although it has indirect powers through its authority to license individual stations which make up the network.

Noting that the networks provide at least 80 per cent of prime evening television programs, the ACLU said, "The commission should have the right to regulate networks directly and thereby to apply sanctions where they will do the most good."

Patrick Murphy Malin of New York city, the union's executive director, presented the civil liberties position at a public hearing at which FCC is re-examining its powers to control program content.

Until the law is changed, Malin's testimony said, the FCC should exercise existing powers to make broadcasting outlets provide "the maximum possible range and balance in subject matter and treatment" in their over-all programming.

The union said it was in full agreement with existing law which prohibits FCC from exercising any censorship over specific programs, save for obscene material, profanity, promotion of lotteries and broadcasts of false distress calls.

Hits Aggression

Nehru listened intently from the right of the vice president and occasionally fingered a rose that was tucked in his brown akhkan.

At no time did the president directly mention China or the dangers of communism, but these were clearly in his mind.

He said a long series of alarms had caused anxiety and suffering.

"These alarms invariably had their source in the aggressive intentions of an alien philosophy backed by great military might," he said.

"Faced with this fact, we in America have felt it necessary to make clear our own determination to resist aggression through the provision of adequate armed forces."

In an indirect slam at communism, Eisenhower said Americans and Indians think alike because "you and we never boast that ours is the only way."

Know Own Failings

"Both are conscious of our weakness and failings," he said. "We both seek the improvement and betterment of all our citizens by assuring that the state will serve and not master its own people, or any other people."

Eisenhower told the legislators he came before them "representing a nation that wants not an acre of other people's land, that seeks no control of another people's government."

"I come here as a friend of India speaking for 180 million friends," he said.

Eisenhower's speech was the high point of a crowded day, the first full day of his 5-day good will visit to India.

He started off by laying a wreath at the Rajghat shrine to Mohandas K. Gandhi, the Indian independence leader assassinated by a Hindu fanatic Jan. 30, 1948. A crowd of 3,000 cheered him.

Cheered by Welcome

As other distinguished foreign visitors have done, the president then planted a tree on the grounds of the shrine, the site on the Jumna river where Gandhi's body was cremated. The tree was a 7-foot American magnolia.

An aide said the president got a tremendous lift from the tumultuous welcome he received on his arrival yesterday from Afghanistan.

Eisenhower and Nehru talked an hour at Eisenhower's suite in the mansion. Then they moved to Nehru's home for lunch and a continuation of the discussion.

Nehru was among the rapt listeners as Eisenhower spoke to parliament:

"I bring to this nation of 400 million the assurance from my own people that they feel the welfare of America is bound up with the welfare of India," Eisenhower said.

"America shares with India a deep desire to live in freedom, human dignity and peace with justice."

Aid to Continue

He implied the United States will continue economic aid programs aimed at helping Nehru's government with its development schemes.

He said the United States "is a nation which shares its substance in assisting toward the achievement of mankind's deep, eternal aspirations for peace and freedom."

Americans have been committed to a never-ending battle against political subjugation, racial inequality and economic misery, he told the Indians.

K-C Opens Processing Unit for Mill Orders

Addition at Lakeview Plant Speeds Up Service to Customers

Neenah — Another corporation-wide program for improved customer service was opened by Kimberly-Clark this week as its new mill order processing unit began operations at the Neenah mill.
The program involved setting up order processing units in all of the corporation's creped wadding manufacturing and converting plants in the United States. The purpose is to shorten the line of communications between field salesmen, the customer and the manufacturing and shipping center.
All orders for Neenah mill creped wadding products now go directly to the mill for faster, more efficient handling.
On N. Lake Street
The new addition fronts N. Lake street and abuts the mill entrance. It is a 1-story and basement building of brick and concrete, conforming on its exterior to the architecture of the mill itself.
The IBM machine room and operating personnel, as well as the mill's stenographic department, are housed on the first floor. The principal order processing section and the mill's traffic department are on the second floor.
Orders now flow from the customer to the mill order processing unit, then to the IBM machine unit where invoices, bills of lading and other pertinent information is readied, then back to order processing for checking. The bills of lading move into the traffic department which plans the shipment.

Psychologist Files Report in Abandonment

Oshkosh — Further proceedings in the case of Mrs. Edward Hanagan, 39, of 612 Roosevelt street, Neenah, who has admitted abandoning her new-born baby girl off County Trunk A on Sept. 24, has been postponed until 10 a.m. next Monday by Municipal Judge S. J. Luchsinger.
A report from the psychologist, appointed by the court, has been filed, indicating that Mrs. Hanagan knew the difference between "right and wrong" at the time of the abandonment and was "competent during the incidents leading to her confession."
The report recommended professional help rather than a prison term and did not recommend a return of the infant to the mother. The psychologist indicated that these were only tentative measures that he was putting forth.

Engineer Has Novel Way to Control Blasts

San Francisco —An A research engineer came up today with a novel way to control violent explosions.

Basically the technique consists of moving the explosive material at supersonic speed, or at the same velocity as the natural speed of the shock wave which causes its detonation.

When the detonating wave can't overtake and spread through the speeding explosive material there is no reaction, no blast.

This procedure, the researcher said, can be used to mix and make products out of chemicals too dangerous to handle by ordinary manufacturing methods. It could be done by slightly decreasing the speed of the chemicals so Christmas"; Prokofieff's
"Troika"; "Adeste Fideles"; arranged by Morton Gould;
and produce slow-motion reactions.

The process also should make possible short, lightweight ramjet engines with high fuel economy and with a wide range of speeds at or just above the speed of sound, he added.

It wouldn't add to the speed of present jets but might be used to solve one of their heating problems, he said.

Dr. Ebbert A. Gross, former chief research engineer for the Fairchild Engine and Aircraft corporation at Deer Park, N.Y., described the technique before the American Institute of Chemical Engineers.

Winneconne Pupils Aid In Used Clothing Drive

Winneconne — Children in the Winneconne community school district are gathering good condition used clothing to donate to the Save the Children federation's program. The clothing is used for children, babies and adults in the rural southern Appalachian mountains where children often go to school ill-clad and barefoot in all kinds of weather. The clothing often is used to help those in disaster areas and overseas.

Grade and high school children already have begun bringing clothing to the school. Friday will be Bundle day at the high school and clothing gifts plus a ticket will admit them to the basketball game in the evening.

On Saturday the children will collect clothing throughout the village.

In the rural southern mountains the Save the Children federation distributes clothing through clothing centers where families who proudly insist on paying something — no matter how little — for what they receive may come to buy clothing for their children at prices they can afford. Those who cannot afford to pay anything receive free clothing through county welfare and school attendance officers.

Neenah Debaters Go to Green Bay

Jays Test Raiders; NHS Meets Indians

Two Rivers Five Risks 4-0 Record

Menasha — Another unbeaten quintet will risk its unmarred record against Menasha Friday night when Two Rivers comes to town for a Mid-Eastern conference fracas.

The contest will be the first of two in as many nights for the Bluejays, who get another tartar Saturday when they invade the Kimberly Paper-maker court.

Menasha and Two Rivers both finished on top in their inaugurations, the Jays handing Neenah its first defeat 67-61 on the strength of a big second half and Two Rivers winning comfortably over Shawano 64-53.

Coach Warren Otto's Raiders have a 4-0 slate. They opened with a 61-57 conquest of Plymouth and then played a control game in downing Manitowoc 50-35, a couple of days after the Shipbuilders had triumphed over Menasha 66-59.

Two Rivers showed its most potent offense the third time out in routing Sheboygan North 79-49, following it up with a win in the conference inaugural.

The Raiders are blessed with seven lettermen but lack height. Dave Belonger at 6-2 being the tallest. Other returnees are Tom Lawrence and Don Koprowski, regulars last year, and Jim Becker, Jeff Bocher, Emery Panosh, Lee Raddatz and Al DeRusha.

Two Rivers starters include Belonger, Lawrence, Koprowski, Raddatz and Bocher. The scoring attack has been balanced with Lawrence usually taking top honors.

The Jays go into their initial game of the weekend with a 2-2 slate and a win would boost them over the .500 mark for the first time since they opened with the victory over West De Pere.

Coach Lucian Gajewski has been getting good scoring from his entire starting quintet. Dave Ristau has hit 22 or better in three of the four games and Bill Ritchie, Jim Stenson and Jay Drzewicki have hit 10 or better on three occasions.

Bill Prange had three baskets in the Neenah game which was just one less point than he totaled in the first three.

Two Rivers took both of last year's two games, winning 70-63 in an overtime the first time around and 61-51 in the Menasha home game.

John, Mo. — Willie Morton, 138, Kansas City, stopped Doc Savage, 138, Chicago, 5.

Rockets in Bid for 1st League Win

Neenah — Having tasted defeat for the first time this season, Neenah's basketballers attempt to get back on the winning trail in a Mid-Eastern conference game at Shawano Friday night.

The Rockets return home, the scene of two of their three conquests, Saturday evening to play host to Clintonville in the second half of the week-end back-to-back schedule.

Shawano goes into the Neenah game with a 2-2 record and like the Rockets, lost its initial league contest.

The Indians opened the season with a 45-39 loss to Antigo team which was trounced by Fond du Lac in its next outing. The previous week Neenah had scored a 10-point win over Fondy.

Whips Oconto

Shawano broke into the win column with a 68-48 triumph over Oconto and then went under .500 by losing to Two Rivers 64-53 in the M-E opener.

The former state champions came up with their best effort last Saturday night in trimming Marinette High school 76-67.

Coach Rudy Ellis, in his third season at the Shawano helm, has four returning lettermen from last year's club which had a 15-8 record.

Hoppe Scores 31

They are headed by 6-5 Ron Hoppe, who tallied 31 points in the victory over Marinette. Others are Guy Booth, Bill Krenger and Scott Pickart.

Other varsity squad members are Dick Schweers, Dan Tomashek, Roger Prickett, Lee Dallman, Don Mayer and Steve Heller, all up from the jayvees. Heller scored 18 points in the loss to Two Rivers and Dallman hit five baskets and Schweers had four against Marinette.

A second half collapse sent the Rockets down to defeat in their league curtain raiser. They led Menasha by seven points at halftime but saw the Jays score the first eight points of the third period.

Split 1958-59 Tilts

Coach Ole Jorgensen is expected to open with Jack Anderson, Dick Wilson, Dave Burton, Tom Smith and Don Althaus or Forrest Hyde. Burton came up with 14 points in the Menasha game and continued improvement by the sophomore would be a big boost to the attack.

Friday's foes split even in last year's meetings. Shawano got off to a fast start in recording a 74-49 win in the conference opener but the Rockets gained revenge by winning 69-67 in the game at Shawano.

One of the Most Improved players on the Menasha High school varsity squad is Jay Drzewicki, a senior, who has scored 43 points in the Jays' first four games. Menasha meets Two Rivers here Friday night in its second Mid-Eastern conference game.

St. Mary Frosh Squad Records Third Victory

Menasha — The St. Mary High school freshmen made Little Chute St. John their third straight victim, 42-31, there Wednesday night.

Wage Earner's Life Span Increasing

Average Length Still Behind All-Time High Record of '56

America's wage earners and their families registered a slight increase in average length of life last year, but still did not equal the all-time high recorded in 1956, it is reported by statisticians of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company.

Average length of life — or expectation of life at birth — was 70.1 years in 1958, or .1 year below the all-time high and an equal amount above the 1957 figure.

Last year was the fourth in succession in which the average lifetime remained around the 70-year mark. This stability is in sharp contrast to the experience for several decades prior to 1954, when the increase in expectation of life at birth averaged about one-half year per annum.

The average lifetime was only 34 years in 1879 to 94; it rose to a little more than 50 years at the close of World war I, reached 60 years in 1935 and passed the 65-year mark in 1948.

Over the last half century the increase in longevity has been greater for American wage-earners and their families than for the general population of the United States. In 1909 the expectation of life at birth among the company's industrial policyholders was about six years less than that for the population as a whole. This disadvantage has been gradually eliminated and at present the two groups are on a par.

The gains in life conservation are underscored by the very low mortality rates currently prevailing among children and young adults. The death rates now are less than 1 per 1,000 at ages 2 through 21 years and remain under 3 per 1,000 until age 41. Two decades earlier the death rates in this period of life were from two to three times greater.

At age 5, as a group, the expectation of life in 1958 was six years greater than that 20 years earlier. Substantial gains have also occurred at the young adult ages. Thus, since 1938 the average re-

2 Billion New Coins Placed In Circulation by Government

Washington — Christ- mas shoppers can be sure of plenty of change this season. A record-breaking two billion new coins have been placed in circulation this year.

This puzzles William H. Brett, mint director.

"That is 50 per cent more than the average number of new coins added to circulation in the last five years," he says.

Brett, who formerly manufactured plumbing fixtures in Alliance and Cleveland, Ohio, became the top coin man in the country in 1954. Since then, the mints have stamped out close to nine billion pennies, nickels, dimes, quarters and halves.

Brett says there may be some doubt why Americans need so many more new coins this year, but little question why coins in general are getting so popular.

For one thing, he notes, there has been a terrific increase in the use of vending machines and parking meters. Also, there has been the great expansion in suburban shopping centers.

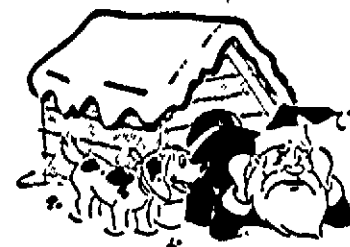

"The old corner grocery store, where you paid your bills once a week, is gone," he says. "Now, in the supermarket, it's all cash."

Brett also has found that certain cities favor particular coins. New York City likes half dollars. Baltimore goes for nickels. Washington is a dime town.

"We take an armored carload of half dollars out of New York every month, and they roll right back in," said Brett. "We think it might be the big money mail order business houses there — or the big tips you have to pay."

One coin Brett has plenty of is the silver dollar. Not one has been minted since 1935, and there are lots left.

After 25 years of operation, the retail store of the Appleton Woolen Mills has been closed. The entire inventory of yard goods, yarn and miscellaneous knit goods, worth several thousand dollars at cost, will be given to the Appleton Visiting Nurse association after the first of the year.

The VNA is planning a special sale of the inventory in late January or early February. All proceeds will be turned over to help build Peabody Manor, the VNA's proposed home for the retired.

"We're closing the store," F. H. Orblison Appleton Woolen Mills' president explained, "because our business is making and selling felts for the paper industry. Historically we've been interested in retail sales of yarn and other knit goods, since our company at one time operated both the Reedsburg mill and Appleton Superior Knitting Works. But for the last five years we've concentrated exclusively on our industrial products."

Opened in 1934

The retail store, on S. Oneida street just south of the main bridge over the Fox river, opened in 1934 under the management of Mrs. J. D. Steele. Since 1939, Mrs. John Engel, Jr., has directed its operations. Mrs. Engel, who joined Appleton Woolen Mills' Quarter Century club this year, will retire Jan. 1.

The 2,000 square feet now occupied by the retail store will be converted into additional manufacturing or storage space, Orblison said. Appleton Woolen Mills has been undergoing a plant expansion during the last year, recently adding two large looms and building an addition to its weave department.

The company's payroll has increased 20 per cent since the first of the year, and sales are reported up nearly 30 per cent.

VNA Plans Sale

In accepting the gift, Mrs. Eugene L. Pierce, president of VNA's board of directors, said: "We're planning to hold a week-long sale as soon as possible after Jan. 1. We haven't completed arrangements for a location or a sales crew, but we'll use a downtown storefront and we would like to be aided by a civic organization to man the store."

"All money raised from this sale will be placed in the Peabody Manor fund. This wonderful gift coincides with our fund-raising campaign which will be held the first three months of 1960."

Peabody Manor, named after the late George F. Peabody, will be a 50-bed home for retired persons. It will be constructed on Fifth and Locust streets, a 21-acre site on the old Jefferson school grounds, given to the VNA by the city of Appleton expressly for this purpose.

Peabody's will included a gift of $50,000 for this type of home. In the half century since his death in 1909, the original bequest has swelled to $400,000. Most of this money can be applied to the Peabody Manor project; the remainder of the money needed to complete the project will be raised in the community.

Mrs. Kress Will $100,000 Fund For Scholarships

A $100,000 scholarship legacy has been received by the Institute of Paper Chemistry from the estate of Mrs. Marion Bessie Kress in memory of her husband, Oscar Kress. The scholarship fund will be called the Oscar Kress Foundation. Kress was the brother of Dr. Otto Kress, technical director of the institute from 1929 until his retirement in 1948.

Dr. Kress, now of Naples, Fla., was the first scientific staff member of the institute.

The entire house was scorched and the garage and breezeway were badly burned. Both men are in fair condition in St. Vincent hospital, Green Bay.

The orthopedic department of Morgan school is seeking an Appleton home for one of its handicapped youngsters.

The girl, 14, lives out of the city and will be spending most of her weekends and all vacations with her family. In order to continue with her schooling the week of Jan. 4, she needs a new home during the week in Appleton. The polio victim is able to walk with the aid of crutches and braces.

School officials report her midday meal and transportation to and from the school is provided by Morgan school and her laundry is done by her parents. The rate of board for five days is from $18 to $20. A bathroom and bedroom is needed on the first floor and a home with no children or older children is preferred.

Couple Hurt In Crash on Highway 114

An Appleton couple was injured about 10 a. m. today when their car was rolled over in an accident about a mile east of Waverly corners on Highway 114.

Mr. and Mrs. John L. Ciske, both 51, of 1930 E. College avenue, were taken to St. Elizabeth hospital by Larry's ambulance. Mrs. Ciske complained of a severe pain in her right shoulder. Ciske had a severely blackened right eye and cuts and bruises to his hands and face. They were reported in satisfactory condition.

Broadside Crash

Ciske was driving toward Menasha along Highway 114 looking for Christmas trees, he told Calumet county traffic Patrolman Donald Kossman. He said he noticed a trees-for-sale sign and signaled to make a left turn, noticing Mrs. Mattern's car approaching from the west.

Ciske continued turning and the Mattern vehicle hit his broadside, rolling over the Ciske car into a ditch on the south side of the highway. The Mattern car remain upright.

Steelworkers Win Can Co. Wage Boosts

Two Industries Raise Prices as Result of Hikes

American Can company and Continental Can company both announced increased wages to employees members of the Steelworkers union and higher prices to customers. American Can operates the Marathon division, Neenah.

The companies said the wages to members of the Steelworkers union are worth an average of 28.2 cents an hour when all the benefits are in effect. Workers also can get cost of living increases of as much as 3 cents hourly in the last two years of the pact. Actual wage increases were 7 cents hourly effective last Oct. 1, next Oct. 1 and Oct. 1, 1961.

Continental Can said its new wage pact "in combination with other increased operating costs will definitely lead to increased can prices but the company is not yet in a position to state the precise amounts of the increases."

Move to Kill Higher Tax

Tobacco Levy Not Needed Now, Leaders Assert

Madison — Democrats in the state legislature today abruptly moved to remove a proposal for higher tobacco taxes from Gov. Nelson's tax bill as the state assembly prepared for a long debate on income tax withholding and other details of the administration's revenue blueprint.

Floor leaders explained that because the legislature has spent less money than the governor has asked, the increase of 1 cent in the cigarette tax and the new 15 per cent tax on cigars and other tobacco products won't be necessary. The two new levies would have raised about $5,500,000 yearly.

There were signs, however, that the administration was in trouble with the tobacco levy proposal and might have been defeated with the aid of Democratic votes from Wisconsin's tobacco producing region.

The key item in the governor's revenue plan is a withholding tax that will provide a windfall of funds. Republicans in the lower house are expected to fight the measure, but they must rely upon the senate Republican majority to kill it. The senate rejected a similar bill last spring.

Maynard W. Martin Innocent of Having Untagged Deer

Waupaca — Maynard W. Martin, 48, route 5, Oshkosh, was found innocent of possession of an untagged deer when he was tried Wednesday before Justice George Whalen.

Martin was arrested Nov. 21 in the town of Helvetia by conservation wardens who told the court Martin had the tag in the deer's leg but that the tag was not locked.

Martin claimed he had tried to lock the tag but that it would not close. Other testimony showed that some tags did not close easily or would not close at all. Arresting police said they were able to lock Martin's tag.

Judge Whalen said he assumed the defendant had told the truth and that testimony showed trouble with locking some tags.

Dist. Atty. G. K. Anderson said an innocent verdict would foreclose future convictions for unlocked tags because defendants would claim they could not lock them.

Ring Promoter Vellela Indicted on 2-Count Charge of Perjury

New York — Vincent J. Vellela, a New York lawyer and head of a fight promotional firm, today was indicted by a New York county grand jury on a 2-count charge of perjury.

The athletic commission recently revoked the license of Rosensohn Enterprises, which holds a contract for a return Patterson-Johansson fight.

Police Find No Driver at Scene Of Car Mishap

Chilton — County police found only a badly damaged automobile and no driver when they arrived early Tuesday morning to investigate an accident reported at the Manitowoc road-Highway 10 intersection one-quarter mile north of Waverly.

The automobile, registered under the name of Thomas Schindler, 22, route 2, Menasha, was eastbound on Manitowoc road when it apparently went out of control before reaching the intersection.

The car laid down 450 feet of skid marks, knocking over a portion of board fence, a stop sign, a wire fence and rolled over several times before coming to a halt in a field east of the intersection.

When police questioned nearby home owners to learn the whereabouts of the driver, they were told that two persons fled the scene.

Under questioning Tuesday, Schindler admitted driving the car. He will be arraigned in justice court today.

Inadequate traction can be a real troublermaker for the wintertime motorist who ignores the facts on safe winter driving, declares the Wisconsin motor vehicle department.

Chilton — The negligent homicide case against Eugene Boehnlein, 20, route 2, Hilbert, which was originally scheduled for circuit court trial Dec. 9 and 10 has been returned to justice court for a second preliminary hearing.

Boehnlein's change in legal counsel since the case first came before justice court plus the absence of a recorder at that time caused the postponement.

The charge against the Hilbert man stems from an auto accident near Stockbridge in June when two passengers in his car were killed.

Parking Proposals Hit Controversy

Little Versus Big Merchants on Hiking Avenue Charges to Dime

Revision of parking meter and time limit laws sailed into full-blown controversy before the city council's public safety committee.

As a result of arguments Tuesday a special public committee meeting was set for 7 p.m. Tuesday, Jan. 26, in the city hall council chambers.

Opposing camps were represented as the little and large College avenue merchants.

Their major bone of contention, discussion showed, is whether meter rates on College avenue should be hiked a nickel to 10 cents an hour.

Who's Who

Merchants representing some 90 per cent of business volume favor all revisions proposed by Ald. Thomas K. Schneider, including the increased meter charge, said W. Theodore Bernhard, 1500 Riverview lane, Seaf's store manager.

Bernhard's report of backing by business volume may be true, said Gordon H. Kisslinger, 1306 Oakcrest court, but there are more than 200 businesses on the avenue and only 28 or 30 are represented by Bernhard.

Kisslinger questioned whether increased meter rates are needed.

Bernhard said his report is based on a unanimous vote of endorsement during a meeting of Appleton Downtown Retail association last Wednesday.

One Problem

Kisslinger said he represents about 20 of the smaller merchants with whom he talked. He said the idea of changes came suddenly. He pleaded for more time to study the proposals.

Discussion showed there is only one part of the proposed revision plan in disagreement: Whether to hike the College avenue meter charge by making it 5 cents for a half hour instead of 5 cents an hour.

Kisslinger said the increase would hurt business; Bernhard thinks not.

Human nature is such, said city is forced to ban parking on main downtown carriers during rush hours."

Kisslinger said he doubts more off-street parking is needed right now because the lot at the southwest corner of Division and Washington streets is rarely full.

Ald. Mrs. Stillings said the problem requires a broader outlook than what the chamber of commerce wants. "I favor this plan, however," she said, "because we need more downtown off-street parking lots to keep Appleton thriving and I can't see where the money's coming from."

Kisslinger, that people will put a nickel in the meter and then hurry out of stores to put in another. They won't put a dime in if they think they'll take more than a half hour, he said.

Asks Why

It was suggested the proposal be changed to make parking 10 cents an hour. Later it was suggested the 10 cents an hour charge extend on the avenue only from Morrison street to Walnut street, leaving three western blocks at a nickel an hour.

Kisslinger questioned whether increased meter rates are needed.

More off-street parking will alleviate traffic congestion, the prime problem, and to buy off-street lots takes money, explained Schneider, safety committee chairman.

Schneider said Kalamazoo, Mich., was driven to a shopping mall because there were no off-street parking lots. In Toledo, Ohio, which tried malls, he said there is very little downtown parking anyway.

Limited Choice

"The choice is very limited," said Schneider. "If you want more off-street parking we have to raise the rates. And you're going to want more off-street parking as the Schneider said the city has purchased about 400 off-street parking spaces in 12 years and asked "can you progress at this rate?" Green Bay, he said, has 44 off-street lots, with 8,000 spaces. "We have 800 spaces," he said.

Construction of a parking ramp in Oshkosh was cited as another type of off-street parking structure that duplicated here could cost more money than is available.

Mayor Mitchell said the Oshkosh ramp cost $553,757. It was constructed with money borrowed from Oshkosh banks. Repayment is to come from parking revenues.

Charges in Oshkosh are 5 cents an hour all day every day of the week, he said.

Giles Flanagan, retail association secretary, said a parking ramp consultant advises the charge should be 15 cents an hour average, with more charged the first hour. "To attract people to the ramp, you can't have a lower cost for street meters. They won't use the ramp," he said.

No Serious Plan Kisslinger said he doubts there has been any serious plan for parking ramps in Appleton.

Ald. Al. H. Stoegebauer said the city gets about $90,000 a year from 1,477 parking meters (414 are on lots off the street and there is space for about 390 more meters on three unmeted lots). The city will pay off its last land contract obligation this year, said, and the $40,000 left after $50,000 annual cost ought to be enough to add off-street spaces.

That much money, it was said, wouldn't pay the interest on bonds to build a ramp, nor would it furnish enough money to buy off-street spaces on either side of Franklin street extended across the Packard street ravine.

Users' Tax

Schneider admitted the increased parking charge for College avenue also was suggested to discourage meter-feeders, the all-day parkers who ignore the hour time limit, but keep paying the meter a nickel an hour.

Kisslinger Tews and Ald. Alvin E. Tews said the idea smacks of penalizing the cars of overtime parkers are towed away and they are billed as well as fined.

"That would be vindictive against the shopper," said Schneider.

"Well," said Tucker, "it seems to me there are abuses here and they ought to be met."

Kisslinger said he thinks the problem is wholly one of educating the downtown store owner and his employees not to use prime shopper parking stalls.

Kisslinger and Bernhard disagreed on whether increased charges would hurt business.

Two Stories

At the rate of 5 cents a half hour, the shopper will be too rushed, said Kisslinger. He cited a chamber of commerce report on the time required by a shopper when he sets out to buy various items.

Bernhard said the majority of the volume merchants wouldn't be for it unless it was going to be good for the business.

People can't find places downtown now, Schneider said, and are going out to the shopping center. More off-street lots are needed, along with a better turnover of choice stalls, he said.

Personalities Tews suggested the problem should be deferred until it is decided whether a parking authority will be formed. Mayor Mitchell said he will be ready with a proposal for the authority sometime in early January.

Mrs. Stillings characterized that as another "put off . . . put off move."

Mayor Mitchell characterized her remarks as "bringing personalities into it."

Schneider said he also would be ready to move, he said. However, the committee decided to delay action while all merchants study the proposal.

The English Have Had 'Em for Years Milwaukee—Ald. Clarence A. Heiden says he thinks Milwaukee is getting too many "crazy names" on taverns.

"We once had a tavern called the Snake Pit," Heiden told the council's license committee. "I don't like those names. They deteriorate a residential neighborhood and attract undesirable."

At his suggestion, a tavern operator who had planned to call his establishment "The Tag Doll" agreed to change the name.

Yuletide Gifts From Your Own Kitchen Say 'Merry Christmas' From the Heart

The Spicy Fragrance of cloves scents these gifts for favorite persons on your Christmas list. At the left, a pomander ball blends the spice with orange rind, cinnamon and oris root. It's easy to make and placed in a cradle of net, tied with bright ribbons, it makes a delightful remembrance. Delectables to convey the season's greetings by way of holiday snacks are the Chocolate Glazed Fruit Cake, Spiced Spritz in an attractive glass container and Spiced Sugar Plum Coffee ring.

This No-Bake Fruit Cake is so delicious and easy to make that we present the recipe in quantity form . . . enough for 28 pounds of cake. Above are various shapes in which it may be baked and decorated. The batch is put together by the 3-fold motion of beat, blend and stir. When the yummy cakes are shaped they are chilled thoroughly or frozen until ready for use. The cake keeps well for several weeks:

BY LILLIAN MACKESY
Post-Crescent Food Editor

Christmas time is the perfect season to give home-made gifts from your kitchen . . . they are thoughtful presents . . . loving remembrances that come straight from the heart because they say without words that you have teamed talent, time and imagination to create a special gift "from our house to yours."

Young fry will chortle with glee over cleverly decorated Christmas cookies in unusual shapes and bright colors . . . friends and relatives will welcome with delight holiday goodies, sweets and luxury foods to make their own entertaining a bit more special.

A favorite aunt or grandmother may be remembered by the children with fragrant pomander balls to tuck away in dresser drawers or suspend on hangers in the closet . . . these are a wonderful "extra" gift or stocking stuffer . . . easy to make and quite gay and frivolous looking when tied in colorful net and trimmed with contrasting satin ribbon.

Here are a few suggestions, chosen for their uncomplicated recipes but marked with that certain ingredient or flare that make each one an unusual gift.

Pomander Ball
oranges, lemons or limes whole cloves ground cinnamon oris root

Wash fruit and wipe dry. Insert whole cloves in skins of fruit until surface is completely covered, using a skewer or pin to start holes. (Don't insert cloves in a straight line as this will cause the skin to crack).

Mix equal parts of ground cinnamon and oris root and place a heaping teaspoonful in a small paper bag along with one clove-stuck orange, lemon or lime. Shake bag to coat the fruit with the mixture. Remove fruit, wrap loosely with foil or place in a foil covered basket or box. Store in a dry place until fruit shrinks and hardens, usually 10 days. Wrap pomander ball in a cradle of net and tie with a colored ribbon.

Spiced Spritz
1 cup softened butter
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon ground nutmeg
1/2 teaspoon ground cloves
1 cup light brown sugar, lightly packed
1 egg
2 1/2 cups sifted flour

Mix butter with spices. Sift brown sugar, gradually blend with butter and spice mixture. Stir in egg, unbeaten. Gradually add flour. Press dough through cookie press, using in desired design, onto ungreased cookie sheets. Bake in preheated 375-degrees oven until lightly browned, about seven to 10 minutes. Cool on rack. Decorate with nuts or candy crystals.

Chocolate Glazed Fruit Cake
1 cup mixed glaze fruit
3 tablespoons orange juice
1 1/2 cups sifted flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 cup softened butter
1/2 teaspoon ground cloves
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon ground nutmeg
1 cup sugar
4 eggs, separated
chocolate glaze

Soak glaze fruit in orange juice one or more hours. Sift flour and baking powder; set aside for later use. Cream butter, spices together; gradually blend in one-half cup sugar, then beat in egg yolks one at a time. Stir in glazed fruit. Gradually add flour mixture, mixing well.

Beat egg whites until they stand in peaks; beat in remaining marshmallows, chocolate and vanilla. Stir vigorously until marshmallows are completely melted and blended, about one minute. Pour into buttered pan. Sprinkle with coconut. Top with cherries. Allow to cool. Cut in squares.

Coconut Cherry Fudge
2 tablespoons butter
2/3 cup undiluted evaporated milk
1 2/3 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
16 medium marshmallows, diced
1 1/2 cups semi-sweet chocolate pieces
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup flaked coconut
maraschino cherry halves

Combine butter, evaporated milk, sugar and salt in saucepan. Cook over medium heat, bringing to a boil and then cooking four to five minutes, stirring constantly. Start timing when mixture starts to bubble around edges of pan. Remove from heat. Stir in

In the Mood of Elegant little French chocolates are these charmers known as Chocolate Yule Rounds. Semi-sweet chocolate morsels make Christmas candy in double-quick time. The flavor and texture are surprisingly wonderful.

Sweets That Say Merry Christmas from the heart include sparkling liquor jellies that can be cooked up in five minutes, pear preserves with an Oriental tang, a new and outstanding Scotch Nut Cake and Brandy-Frosted Walnuts . . . all personally yours from your own kitchen.

Children to Attend Institute Yule Party

The annual Christmas party for children of the Institute of Paper Chemistry's staff and students will be at 3 p.m. Saturday at the Institute auditorium.

The program will consist of movies, a magician and a visit from Santa Claus to climax the holiday party.

About 160 children will attend the event which is under the direction of Mrs. John Strange. She will be assisted by Mrs. Harry Lewis, Mrs. Zinn Garrett and Mrs. Roy Whitney.

Just Two Easy, Basic techniques are all it takes to transform rolls of slice 'n bake cookie dough from grocers' refrigerator cases into appealing Christmas cookies, one of the most welcomed holiday gifts to any family. One is to roll out the dough and start cutting with fancy shaped cutters or patterns. The second way is to slice the cookie roll in the usual way, then fashion into holiday shapes . . . group them to make a pretty angel or gay Christmas tree . . . roll each slender slice and bend into the shape of a wreath or cane. Bake until golden brown, then after cooling, decorate the cookies to complete the illusion.

Suds Heavily Soiled Areas Before Washing
hermlines, brush these areas with soap or detergent before laundering the entire garment. You can't expect your washing machine to know it must wash certain spots more thoroughly than others!

Homemade Candy Ranks High As Welcomed Holiday Treat

It's not necessary to follow a long, complicated recipe to have good candy . . . home-made sweets that always are welcomed by friends and relatives at Christmas time.

We think we've found several foolproof recipes that take the minimum of time and understanding to prepare. Chocolate Yule Rounds are really dressed up fudge that is so pliable that it may be rolled into balls for shaping. With a touch or two of confectioners' tinted frosting and trimmings dictated by an active imagination, you'll have the prettiest gift fudge in a week of Christmases.

The Butter Toffee, generously filled with walnuts and almonds, is surprisingly easy to make. The candy is fairly hard after cooling, but it may be broken readily into pieces by striking it with the handle of a knife.

Seasonal red maraschino cherries are used for Coconut Cherry Fudge, a creamy candy made with evaporated milk and easy as one-two-three to make.

Chocolate Yule Rounds
12 ounces semi-sweet chocolate bits
2/3 cup sweetened condensed milk

1 tablespoon water
1 teaspoon vanilla

Melt chocolate over hot, not boiling, water. Remove from heat; stir in sweetened condensed milk, water and vanilla until smooth and satiny but do not beat. Drop by teaspoonfuls on waxed paper. Decorate if desired. Chill until firm.

If unusual shapes are desired, chill mixture until firm enough to handle, about 30 minutes. Then roll between palms of hands to make small balls, logs, crescents or other shapes. Roll in instant cocoa, tinted coconut, chopped nuts, chopped candied fruit or other candy decorations. The recipe makes about one and one-fourth pounds.

Butter Toffee

2 1/2 cups sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup water
1 1/2 cups water
1 1/2 cups chopped blanched almonds
1 cup finely chopped walnut meats
1 pound milk chocolate, melted

Bring sugar, salt, water and butter to boiling point. Add half of the almonds. Cook, stirring constantly, to hard crack stage (290 degrees). Add remainder of almonds and half the walnut meats. Pour into greased shallow pan. Cool. When cool, brush with melted chocolate and sprinkle with rest of walnut meats. Break in pieces.

Coconut Cherry Fudge
2 tablespoons butter
2/3 cup undiluted evaporated milk
1 2/3 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
16 medium marshmallows, diced
1 1/2 cups semi-sweet chocolate pieces
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup flaked coconut
maraschino cherry halves

Combine butter, evaporated milk, sugar and salt in saucepan. Cook over medium heat, bringing to a boil and then cooking four to five minutes, stirring constantly. Start timing when mixture starts to bubble around edges of pan. Remove from heat. Stir in

Barbara Eisenhower Doesn't Think About Being Tired on Tour

BY HENRY S. BRADSHAW
New Delhi — (AP) — Barbara Eisenhower today said she is whipping through the whirlwind schedule of her father-in-law's 11-nation good will tour by "not even thinking about being tired."

"It works, too," she commented during a tour of the Indian Red Cross center. It was the second stop during a busy day for Barbara.

She joined President Eisenhower and her husband, Maj. John Eisenhower, in an early morning visit to the shrine of Indian independence leader Mohandas K. Gandhi.

Smartly Dressed
Then she appeared at the Red Cross building snappily outfitted in a salt-and-pepper tweed dress with a short jacket, black cummerbund and a black grosgrain bandeau.

The attractive, 33-year-old American showed keen interest in the services and facilities — she's a member of the board of directors of the American Red Cross chapter in Gettysburg, Pa.

VFW Unit Plans Yule Donations
The Veterans of Foreign Wars auxiliary held its Christmas party Tuesday evening at the VFW hall with Mrs. Jule Boggess as chairman. Mrs. Edward Kies was in charge of the community project for November.

Members voted a donation to the Bertha Kefferling Memorial fund for the nursery at Wood hospital and the auxiliary also will prepare holiday baskets to needy families.

It was announced that the 8th district midwinter conference will be held Jan. 17 at Kaukauna.

Group Donates To Hospitals
The Charles O. Baer auxiliary to the United Spanish War Veterans met Thursday evening for a Christmas party at the armory. The group voted donations to Veterans' hospitals at Wood, Tomah, King and Madison and planned its next meeting for 1:30 p. m. Jan. 15 at the armory.

Neighborhood Names New Scout Chairman
Mrs. Paul Mittnacht, 1115 S. Lawe street, was named new chairman of the Girl Scout's south side neighborhood at a recent meeting held at Sacred Heart Catholic school.

Troop organizers named were Mrs. Douglas Miller, Foster school, Mrs. James Long, Sacred Heart Catholic school, and Mrs. Julian Conkey, Richmond school.

Mrs. Donald Dorzweiler is cookie chairman and Mrs. Long and Mrs. Robert Herwig are in charge of the personal committee.

Dinner Party
Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Peters, 2101 Harriman street, entertained recently at a dinner party for Mr. and Mrs. Milton Kraus and son Robert who are leaving Sunday for a 6-week visit in Peterborough, England.

Barbara also asked if the Indian Red Cross teaches midwives how to use sterile techniques. Told yes, she commented smilingly, "That's what I just finished learning myself" at the Gettysburg chapter.

Barbara suffered a mild coughing attack before leaving the center but it didn't last long. She was hurried to a coffee table and for a steaming cup.

"That helps," she said. "It comes on you all of a sudden."

"Probably dust," commented Mrs. Ellsworth Bunker, wife of the U. S. ambassador to India.

Barbara hurried on to her next stop, more coffee with women of the American community in New Delhi.

Soap Replaces Teacher's Apple In Irish Schools

Soap for the teacher may well replace the traditional apple, if a women's group in County Wexford, Ireland, has its way.

These Irish women feel that the schools should teach the children to wash themselves, and so passed this resolution: "That the Department of Education should be asked to include in all primary schools a weekly period for the teaching of health rules and hygiene."

Fireplace Wall Puts Up New Front

With Christmas centering so much attention on the family hearth, many a family is full of talk again about modernizing the fireplace wall. This is one of the most worthwhile of all projects for very many homes. Certainly there's no lifting of the style of a room if the fireplace is badly proportioned, out-dated or awkwardly rustic in the company of fine furnishings.

Ellen Lehman McCluskey, A.I.D., redesigned a false-note fireplace facing this way, with a cover-up of handsome wood paneling that turns dramatic. Three illuminated niches take ever-changing arrangements of flowers and plants, paintings and favorite art objects. Since the wood paneling was necessarily set forward to enclose the chimney breast, the niches built in easily from the paneling to the original wall, and below them are cabinets which provide a wonderful dividend of storage space.

Behavior of Woman Not Considerate

BY EMILY POST

Dear Mrs. Post: A woman accompanied by her son and daughter, 21 and 24, were having dinner in a restaurant, when an acquaintance came up to their table and lingered more than 10 minutes chatting, but refused to take the offered seat. The son remained standing while his dinner grew cold. Under the circumstances, don't you think the young man could, with propriety, have sat down? Even if the visitor did not ask him to do so, could not the mother say to the visitor, "I am sure you will excuse my son if he sits down."

Answer: In the first place, the behavior of the acquaintance was inexcusable because, even with permission, the young man could not sit down, no one in the restaurant would have known that he had been asked to do so, and they would have thought him either ignorant or ill-mannered.

Last Minute Dates
Dear Mrs. Post: A boy friend of mine always calls me up and asks for a date the night before he wants to go out. I don't mind these last minute dates once in a while, but when it is done regularly I think it is very impolite and shows lack of consideration for the girl. I would like your opinion on the matter.

Answer: I do not think that asking you 24 hours ahead of

Post-Game Party Scheduled by Women's Dorm

"Blue Christmas" is the theme chosen by the women residents of Washington house on the Lawrence college campus for their party Friday evening after the varsity basketball game.

Decorations and music will carry out the theme, while a dance will be performed by Karen Borchardt, Wauwatosa; Carol Chmiel, 539 N. Linwood time is showing lack of consideration. There are many young men who rarely know even that far in advance if they will be free to go out for an evening.

Ushers at Wedding
Dear Mrs. Post: My sister is going to be married in two months and has asked me to be her matron of honor. Shouldn't my husband be included somewhere in the wedding party? Her fiancé has asked his friends to be ushers and a cousin to be best man.

Answer: Sometimes a bridegroom asks a member of the bride's family to be one of his ushers, but this is not at all necessary because his ushers are supposed to be his own best friends.

Mrs. Post offers readers leaflets on a variety of subjects concerning etiquette. If you would like to have her leaflet E-4, entitled "Wedding Expenses," send 10 cents in coin to Dept. E. P., care of this newspaper, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Stewart of the Lawrence faculty. Chairmen for the party are Margot Ryan, and Beverly Ansink, LaGrange Park, Ill.

Mother's Helper

by Neimann & Pearson

WOULD your child know what to do if she were inadvertently separated from you in a strange place? Good procedure to impress on her—"in case": find a policeman, tell him the problem. Second best: go into a shop and tell a clerk. These are better than approaching any stranger on the street.

HIS AND HERS —

BY MURIEL STAFFORD, GRAPHOLOGIST

HE / think my wife exaggerates
SHE my husband terrific

Appreciative Wife

"... I am enclosing a sample of my husband's terrific handwriting. Do you see here the qualities that make him so wonderful?"

When she speaks of her husband's "terrific handwriting" she is correct. His swift, decisive script with ultra-simplified letter forms of varied height indicates a creative mind with great potentials. He's both magnetic and intuitive. Associates are attracted to him and he can keep anyone interested. He is overflowing with ideas. He's also charged with high enthusiasm and an urgent sense of responsibility.

His hunches are so uncanny he may sometimes feel as if he's "mind-reading." He is vividly aware of the importance of money, yet letter "g", with the loop veering to the right, indicates an altruistic strain. He will often do more for others than for himself.

The capital "I" made as a single, unornamented downstroke has been called the "sophisticated I." It's seldom found except in a mature and gifted writing.

As a husband he is not exactly an angel! He's extremely independent and set in his convictions. Indications of his desire to do everything his own way include unyieldingly stiff downstrokes and strong, t-bars, some of them slanting downward.

Yes, he's stubborn, sometimes hard to satisfy and you can't tell him much, but he's fascinating and irresistible, even to his wife.

Her writing? Suavity, poise, warm affections, tact and a quick mind. They deserve each other!

Miss Stafford welcomes letters from her readers. They cannot be acknowledged but the most interesting ones will be used in her column. (Copyright, 1959)

Opening lead — D 5

West opened the five of diamonds, and East won with the ace. East returned the six of diamonds, and South hurriedly put up the king.

This was a fatal error. West ruffed, and East later defeated the contract with the king of spades and another diamond trick.

"What horrible luck," South complained. Everybody agreed with him, and then everybody congratulated West on his opening lead.

This was all very comforting, but luck had nothing to do with the case. South had tossed game and rubber out of the window.

Revealing Card

Take a good look at East's lead at the second trick—the six of diamonds, a very revealing card. Now put yourself in South's place and think about the diamonds.

What was the nature of West's opening lead of the five of diamonds? Could it be a fourth-best lead? The only higher cards missing are the queen and seven. If West had

To Your Good Health

Don't Connect Cause, Effect Unless Related, Says Molner

By Joseph G. Molner, M. D.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I've had migraine headaches for years, and not long ago had tests showing that I am allergic to eggs. I forgot to mention this when I had my polio shots. The first one didn't bother me, but with the second I was sick for four days, like having the flu with aching bones and a headache that lasted about a month—S. S."

There is no egg in polio vaccine; the only thing likely to cause allergic reactions is a very small amount of penicillin. To be on the safe side, people who know they are allergic to penicillin should warn the doctor of this, since at least one manufacturer makes polio vaccine which does not contain penicillin.

To get back to your case, one of the easiest ways to make a mistake—either in medicine or any other activity—is to connect a cause and an effect which don't really belong to each other.

It is quite possible for vaccine to be given at a time when the patient, without knowing it, is coming down with the flu or some other malady.

Long Odds

Indeed, for that matter it is possible that the patient may even unknowingly have been exposed to polio. In such an instance headache and flu-like symptoms may occur after the vaccine has been given, although these symptoms are far less serious than a full-blown case of polio.

Thus I can say that there might be a connection between your polio shot and your headache and other aches, but the odds are very long that something else was the cause. After millions of injections, the Salk polio vaccine has proved to be the safest of all immunizations from the standpoint of unpleasant reactions.

One other thing ought to be considered in your case, anyway. You have had headaches for years; I'd have some further checkups to try to seek out the cause or causes.

Smear Test

"Dear Dr. Molner: Please explain a Pap's test in connection with a routine pelvic examination. The doctor took some smears from the cervix, I think—Mrs. D. L. C."

The "Pap" test or smear test is named for Dr. George Papanicolaou.

Ann's Opinion on Toy Guns For Children Infuriates Man

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You must be some kind of a nut or something. That column of yours where you said it wasn't necessary for kids to play with toy guns really got me mad.

Guns are a part of our American heritage.

The right to bear arms is part of the American way of life. I always had a toy pistol and a toy rifle when I was growing up. It helped me to be a good shot when I got old enough to go hunting. I've hunted every year for the last six and never have had an accident. I think you are wacky.

Why didn't you stay in Russia?—Y.C.

Dear Y.C.: Thanks for the sweet note. You sound like a real doll. I didn't stay in Russia because I prefer the United States.

Hunting is a fine sport for those who like it. I don't. I'm glad you're a good shot and I'm happy you haven't had an accident. Sometimes the other fellow's accident is the one that puts you in the hospital—or six feet under. Keep wearing red in the woods, Buster—and lots of luck.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My sister-in-law comes from Boston, which probably accounts for her snooty ideas. She's so "formal" it makes me tired.

We live about five blocks apart. I've been raised to be a down-to-earth person. In my opinion, there's nothing wrong with opening the front door of a relative or a close friend and shouting "yoo-hoo, Liz is here."

I've done this all my life and no one ever complained. This morning my sister-in-law told me she thinks it's rude to walk into a home no matter how well you know the people.

I've never criticized anyone for walking into my home and I feel insulted that she should take this high-tone attitude. What do you say?—Put Out

Dear Put: Boston isn't the only city in the world that has door-knockers and bells and there's nothing snooty or "formal" about expecting people to use them.

I agree with your sister-in-law that it's rude to walk into a home and shout "Yoo-hoo—I'm here." In fact, I'll go even further and say it's inconsiderate to drop in without first phoning and giving the hostess a fighting chance.

DEAR ANN: I'm 26 and have been going with a girl who is 23 for two years. I've given her the same engagement ring four times. She has given it back to me four times. I have the ring now and she wants me to hand it over again.

We fight about unimportant things such as which movie to see or whether to double date or not, and then she ends up throwing the ring in my face.

Last August, after a fight, I took out another girl. She carried on like a maniac, wouldn't eat for three days and lost five pounds. Her mother finally phoned me.

Yet when I ask her to set a wedding date she says she needs more time. Also, she has dated fellows behind my back and lied about it.

Shall I give her the ring once more and tell her this is the last chance?—Rinky

Dear Rinky: This girl doesn't want you, but she doesn't want anyone else to have you either. She's already had four strikes which is one more than she's entitled to. I say next batter up.

To learn the knack of feeling comfortable with the opposite sex, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "How To Be Date Bait," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.) (Copyright, 1959)

Legline Trimmer

A lovely writes: "Early in the new year, I am taking off on a winter vacation. I will need a swim suit and dread the purchase. It's my legs—too, too, heavy. Is there any hope of a quick reduction?"

Every woman who wants a slimmer legline in a hurry may put her faith in the following reducing routines. She may, that is, if she performs them every day without fail.

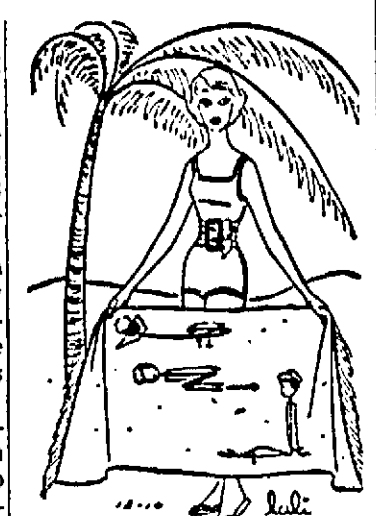

Lie face down on a carpeted floor; cradle head in hands. Bend knees and try to touch heels to buttocks. Holding position, gently but firmly slap thighs in turn against floor. Repeat for twenty counts.

Lie on side, legs together. Pull knees to chest and quickly slide legs down along floor to full extension. Repeat ten times and perform on opposite side.

Sit with legs straight out.

Button Hunt Exciting Fun As Indoor Game for Group

BY CAPPY DICK

A button hunt is lots of fun to hold when you have some friends at your house. It's easy to prepare.

All you need is a box of buttons—a dozen or more of them. Without letting your friends see what you are doing, hide the buttons all over the room. Put them in places where they can be seen by looking behind the floor and so on, but not in places where they couldn't possibly be found without moving everything in the room.

When you have the buttons hidden, call in your friends and explain that at a signal they are all to start hunting for the buttons and that they should be just as fast as possible. Tell them how many buttons have been hidden.

The player who has found the most buttons by the time all of them have been discovered is the winner of the hunt. As a prize give the winner an extra piece of cake, an extra cookie or an extra scoop of ice cream.

If you prefer to hide other objects than buttons, you may do so, but to avoid confusing the players all the objects should be of the same type. That is, you can hide peanuts in the shell, if you wish, or deflated toy balloons. But don't mix the players up by hiding a combination of things.

(Copyright, 1959)

Child's Handmade Gift Pleases Parents Best

BY ANGELO PATRI

Children want to give their parents a Christmas gift. Father usually gets a tie and as he has a few such in his top drawer he is not likely to be too excited about another. He smiles and says it's just wonderful, but—the children usually get together, pool their funds and buy her something for the house—a juicer or an electric something, like a toaster or a frying pan.

When it comes to mother

Now Christmas is something out of the ordinary. There is a sort-of-out-of-this-world feeling in it. For this one day we are allowed, all of us, to be child-like in spirit and that spirit is not concerned with such practical things as pots and pans and ties.

They're fine in their places but their places do not include the Christmas tree. Then what? How about the children making this gift with their own two hands? Putting something of themselves, that loving part, into something

St. Norbert Fund Campaign Passes Two Thirds Step

Two-thirds of the St. Norbert college, De Pere, development program goal has been reached, captains and workers of the campaign's special gifts committee were told Wednesday.

A total pledge of $1,252,000 has been made, compared to a goal of $1,858,000.

The $82,000 pledged last month has been allocated to the science building fund. This addition has moved the science building fund to $457,000 with $343,000 still remaining to be subscribed.

The Very Rev. D. M. Burke, O. Praem., college president, said the college now can begin laying the groundwork for the new science building and the union building, which has been completely subscribed. The St. Norbert 10-year development program calls for another $2,250,000 more than the $1,858,000 first phase goal.

Sokolsky Discusses Life, Death, Science and Belief in God

BY GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
New York — Just about a year ago, I discovered that among other things I was possessed by a cancer, a malignant growth which often kills its victims. However, here I am, healthier than I have ever known myself to be, capable of doing all the work I ever did. It is indeed a blessing to be alive and strong.

There is much to learn about fear and hopelessness, about the psychosomatic effects of giving up the ghost, as the saying is. Those who fear death seem to commit suicide by their fears. Those who love life and cling to it, believing in God's mercy, cannot avoid physical pain but they can be strengthened by their lack of fear, by prayer, by the assurance, which they sense and feel, that life is not only good but continuous.

A curious atheist is this Khrushchev with the word, Bog, constantly on his lips. Bog is Russian for God and Khrushchev uses it as his grandmother did.

Appreciation of Life
Khrushchev is not like Stalin, the theological student, who had to fight God to assure himself of his greatness. Stalin's life must have been one of unending terror. He who had mastered a nation and had exercised the power of life and death, realized, at long last, that he was only mortal and would die. What a realization for a dictator!

We simple people who, to use a very plain expression, believe, have no such problems. God's will be done and we can go into the surgery only saddened that we may never see those, in the flesh, whom we so dearly love. And one says his prayers and shuts his eyes.

How astonishing it is to be awake again, to see the sun and the snow and to listen to good music and to the voice of a friend! How wonderful it is to go back to work and then to forget that it had ever happened!

Cancer and various heart ailments are the big killers in our society. Perhaps really not as big as accidents and murders, but these diseases are big killers. So much is being done nowadays to find ways to prolong life that it begins to appear possible that we might some day live for many more years than we do today.

Wisdom and Happiness
And we are so much younger these days than our ancestors were at the same age. We are less portly and therefore we live longer. There are more sedentary which is a hazard and our wars are fiercer and take more lives when they occur. But by and large, we live longer; we are comparatively younger; and we are healthier than our ancestors were.

But have we attained to greater happiness and greater wisdom? Happiness, contentment, the joy of living—these qualities of life cannot be manufactured by an environment. They cannot be purchased. They come from the soul. Such men as St. Francis of Assisi or Gautama whom men call Buddha needed no wealth to make them happy. They found the glorious life in the worship of the Being who gave to life its eternity and its perfection. And in perfection they found humility.

To such men, it would have been unthinkable that anyone would make a machine that could destroy the earth. Perhaps they would have said that if that is science, then science is unnecessary. But those who have known cancer exist to destroy. The truth is the physical sciences join with the humanities in seeking to cultivate the mind and body of man that he may live in strength and in virtue. It is in this spirit that the breakthrough to saving lives from cancer is being approached. And the breakthrough is not too far away.

Safety Committee Asks Parking Ban in Appleton St. Block

Parking should be banned on the west side of Appleton street, Lawrence to Prospect to move traffic more freely, the city council's public safety committee has recommended Tuesday.

Ald. R. P. Groh's other suggestion to enlarge parking behind the First Congregational church on the east side of the street was tabled until Police Traffic Lt. John Gosch surveys how much people use the sidewalk along that side of the street.

Groh's suggestion was to replace the west side parking stall loss with more stalls in the lot by enlarging the lot to the curb line.

Pork Prices Still Low; Chicken Also a Bargain

By the looks of the butcher's counter again this week, chances are your bargain Sunday dinner will involve some kind of pork.

Pork is an outstanding buy. There's no getting around it, unless, of course, you want to fall back on chicken.

Chops range from 69 to 75 cents a pound, although you can pick up loins which can be made into chops from about 43 cents a pound. Roasts average around the 40-cent mark. Ham remains a good buy with butt halves ranging from 69 to 75 cents a pound and picnics averaging around 27 cents a pound, considered a good buy nonetheless.

Chicken

Chicken, the other bargain, is about 35 to 39 cents a pound for both fryers and roasting chickens. Holiday turkey prices have not yet been set, but now is the time to order holiday fowl.

Beef prices have not wavered since last week, compared to previous weeks. Large, Grade A varieties range from 43 to 45 cents a dozen, with smaller varieties less expensive.

Oranges Good

Vegetables and fruits look exceptionally good this year, although the prices have remained constant. Oranges are about the best they have been since last winter—about 79 cents a dozen for large navel and 45 cents for small ones. Be sure to watch the quality on all oranges, however.

Grapefruit also is a good bargain, with pink varieties costing 5 to 6 cents apiece, white 12 cents apiece.

Potatoes are in good supply, with large, white baking varieties averaging about 7 cents a pound. Wisconsin whites are about 5 cents a pound.

Other vegetable bargains include squash, at two pounds for 15 cents; sweet potatoes at 15 cents a pound; cabbage at 10 cents a pound; avocados at 8 cents each; and radishes at 5 cents a bunch.

Other vegetable and fruit prices have remained steady, with salad vegetables still being rather high.

Municipalities Await Results Of Tax Study

Towns, Cities May Gain Relief From Property Tax Base

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — Municipal governments of Wisconsin are relying upon the citizens revenue study commission now at work for the formulation of tax revision programs that will provide relief for the property tax base of Wisconsin cities, towns, villages and counties.

"It is inconceivable that the committee will recommend anything which will require local governments to continue to have to turn to property owners to finance increasing needs of their citizens," said E. J. Johnson, secretary of the League of Wisconsin Municipalities.

Johnson made his comment in the official organ of the League in which he discussed the inevitability of higher Wisconsin tax burdens occasioned mostly by the rising enrollments in the public schools.

Johnson and other league staff members attended meetings of the revenue study group constantly. Mayor Stanley Greene of Sturgeon Bay, chairman of the league committee on taxation and finance, has lost no opportunity to emphasize the property tax worries of Wisconsin cities and villages.

(The outlook for a sympathetic treatment of the municipalities is good. In a preliminary report to the governor and the legislature the so-called

Shoe Store Operator Opposes Increased Parking Charges

Hiking of parking meter rates is "just what the shopping center is hoping will happen," Earl D. Miller, operator of Heckert Shoe company, 119 E. College avenue, informed Mayor Mitchell Wednesday.

Miller said he opposes increased rates on College avenue because the city needs more off-street parking stalls to entice business, not higher parking charges.

He also objects to using parking meter revenue to pay for police department equipment and policemen's salaries, Miller said.

(Policemen who enforce the parking meter laws ride motorcycles. Their salaries and the cost of the equipment are taken from parking meter revenue.)

Cookbooks Top Gift for Homemakers

No good cook worth her salt ever regrets getting a new cookbook for Christmas. She's a recipe collector at heart and the more she has the merrier.

There are many cookbooks on the market these days, all excellent ones, including cooking for two, a small family or large one.

Close to home, the King's Daughters' excellent effort of last summer, "To Many Cooks," still is available for holiday giving. It's filled with a variety of recipes from entrees to desserts, favorite foods and newly created dishes.

es of members of the Benefit Circle in Appleton. A recipe from "Blueberry Hill Cookbook," one that any serious cook will enjoy, is when the power fails.

Zabaglione, a luxurious Italian dessert. It's a frothy custard that calls for a vigorous wallop from a wire whisk and careful cooking. Combine for each serving, two ounces of Marsala wine, two teaspoons superfine sugar and the yolk of one egg. Beat thoroughly, then cook slowly in a double boiler. Stir constantly until mixture is creamy. Serve while it is warm and frothy.

Every inexperienced cook will cherish the gift of the new "General Foods Kitchen Cookbook." The book offers a solution to almost any food emergency in a home.

It discusses ways to outwit time, how to cook for one, how to use new appliances and even what to prepare when the power fails.

You've time to decorate holiday foods, too. If you make Fromage Tea Cookies with a package of vanilla wafers, Give them pink blush by frosting, thinly, with a mixture of one-half cup cream, cheese, one tablespoon cream, and one teaspoon currant jelly—enough for 25 cookies. Then, dip wafers into finely crushed vanilla wafer crumbs and dot them with maraschino cherry slices. Just before serving, broil the cookies in a 350-degree oven for 10 minutes.

The organization's food price index fell to $5.89 from last week's $5.91 for its third successive decline and second straight 1959 low.
The current reading matches the level of March 1956. That was the lowest since January 1956 when the index stood at $5.86.

Record Stars Fading As Film Box Office Bait

Producers Cite Poor Business by Fabian's
'Hound Dog Man' as Indicative of Trend

BY JINGO

Hollywood observers claim the use of recording stars as movie boxoffice bait is a fading fad.

Principal reason is the bad business which "Hound Dog Man," starring Fabian, has been doing at theaters throughout the country.

One producer says teenagers, who were expected to patronize the film, stayed away because of the advertising. The ads should have fastened on the romance between Carol Lynley and Stuart Whitman and not on Fabian, he says.

A fan magazine publisher is ready to blame Fabian, period. Current magazines with him on the cover are hitting their 6-year low in sales, he says.

Jingo, from afar, likes the reasoning of Mike Connolly, Hollywood columnist, best:

"They should blame the payola probe and the utter disillusionment of teenage record-buyers."

Fabian, by the way, seems to realize the trend. He's booked a young romance story for his next picture, "Daddy-O," with Bing Crosby. After that he goes all-out dramatic as one of the younger marines in "The Hell Raisers."

Jingo Lingo: Universal-International is re-issuing "The Glenn Miller Story," its 1954 flicker. . . Taina Elg has been released from her MGM movie contract, meaning you'll be seeing her a lot on TV. . . Songstress Joni James makes her dramatic debut in an upcoming segment of "Zane Grey Theater." . . Clint Walker has been assigned the starring role in the feature-length film, "The Whip." Warner Brothers originally had it earmarked for John Wayne.

Mark Stevens says he's fed up with TV and will operate a hotel in Majorca. . . First Gregory Peck quit, then Rock Hudson, and now Charlton Heston has refused to play Marilyn Monroe's leading man in "Let's Make Love." Reason: MM takes too long to make a movie. Hudson, by the way, starts shooting "Sundown at Crazy Horse" in February, with Kirk Douglas co-starring.

Alan Ladd and Sidney Poitier are locationing in Oregon with "All the Young Men," their next picture. . . Eric Fleming, the flint-jaw of "Rawhide," will play a surgeon in "Each Day I Die," a coming British picture. . . Georges Clouzot, who made the anti-American, "Wages of Fear," will direct Sophia Loren and Burt Lancaster in "The Capri Story." It will be shot in Italy.

Henry Denker, who adapted Fulton Oursler's "The Greatest Story Ever Told" for 10 years on radio, is writing six specials for showing next season on NBC-TV. All are being gleaned from the Bible. . . Joan Bennett takes over Cornelia Otis Skinner's role for the road tour of "The Pleasure of His Company," which just closed on Broadway. . . Jed Harris has obtained stage rights to "Here Comes Mr. Jordan," Robert Montgomery's smash movie of 1941. He plans a stage musical for debut on Broadway in February.

Howard Keel Carries Carol Lawrence back to her dressing room after Monday night's opening performance of the Broadway musical "Saratoga." The pair play the leading roles in the musical based on Edna Ferber's novel, "Saratoga Trunk."

Mall Report Was Sent to Wrong Place

Safety Committee Gives Problem to Men Who Made Trip

Mayor Mitchell referred the shopping malls report to the wrong committee, the city council's public safety committee have decided.

Committeemen admitted the report contains many references to off-street parking which falls in their jurisdiction.

But, they said the report has many other angles not in their jurisdiction, and the board of public works did make the early October trip to study firsthand the Kalamazoo, Mich., and Toledo, Ohio, malls.

Action Needed
Referral to the safety committee was looked upon as a method of burying the report,

"Another example of do nothing," Ald. Mrs. Stillings said. Some action on the report is necessary, Ald. Schneider, committee chairman, said, because part of it calls for serious study in the next two years of shopping malls for College avenue.

A decision is required, Schneider said, because the engineering department already has begun plans for reconstruction of College avenue, and a mall would change plans.

Committeemen voted unanimously to recommend that the council Dec. 16 forward the malls report to the board of public works.

Polio Victim Has Amazing Recovery

Newark, N.J. —(U)—Hugh Mahoney, 14, stood at the basketball foul line and pumped in 25 out of 30 free shots to win the title of city junior champion. A year ago, he was paralyzed with bulbar polio.

Now the 5-foot-6 youth hopes to begin practicing running and jumping shots in hopes of winning a place on his high school varsity basketball team. "I may not be too tall," he says, "but I've got high hopes."

Courts Probably Will Umpire Nelson - Knutson Ouster Fight

Governor, Commissioner Both Claim State Laws Bypassed

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — Courts probably will umpire the dispute over Democratic Gov. Nelson's ouster of Reuben Knutson, veteran of the state industrial commission.

Knutson and Republican friends Wednesday opened a fight to save his job, claiming the governor acted illegally in naming George R. Otto to his seat because Knutson's 1957 appointment has four years to run.

The argument was placed into a senate hearing record by Assemblyman Leonard, Milwaukee, assistant leader of the Republican minority in the assembly.

Knutson 69 Years Old Nelson contends he was entitled to replace Knutson—who is now 69—under state law which provides for retirement on pension of state officers and employees who have reached the age of 65.

Leonard, apparently speaking with the backing of Knutson, claimed the law specifically exempts appointive officers and the commissioner is entitled to remain in office for four more years as a result.

"Mr. Knutson has not retired and has no intention of retiring at this time," said Leonard. "It is obvious that in appointing another to Knutson's post, the governor is in flagrant violation of the state statutes and the prerogatives of the legislative body which confirmed Mr. Knutson's appointment for a full 6-year term in 1957."

Vacant for 2 Years Gov. Nelson's office said Atty. Gen. John W. Reynolds interprets the law to mean there has been a vacancy in the industrial commission the last two years because former Gov. Thomson, in making the Knutson appointment did not file with the retirement board a request for an extension of his service. The executive office made it clear it does not intend to surrender on the point.

If the Republican-controlled senate, as expected, refuses to confirm Nelson's choice of Otto, presumably Knutson will remain on the job and the executive office will challenge his right to continue to act — by holding up his salary or expenses and thus forcing him to go to court. There are relatively few court interpretations of the state and local government retirement act, now about 15 years old.

Nearly ignored in the hearing room Wednesday was Otto, who explained mildly that he is a career man on the commission staff, 53 years old and a lawyer.

Leonard pointedly said he had no desire to oppose Otto, but was primarily asserting that Otto cannot be named to a vacancy that does not exist.

Leonard called Nelson's action "arbitrary", and motivated by a desire to take over political control of the important commission. The present chairman of the agency, Matt Schimenz, is a Nelson appointee of this year.

He noted that Nelson earlier this year named a 72-year-old man as head of the public service commission and that a new law prohibits discrimination by private employers on account of the age of job applicants.

Nelson as a senator voted union for the confirmation of Knutson's appointment two years ago, he continued, and his present effort to unseat him amounts to defiance of rights.

Republican hold-over. The commission job pays $13,500 a year. The third member is John H. Rouse, also a Republican hold-over.

Seven Drivers Forfeit Bonds

Forfeiting $15.50 each for speeding were Horace W. Fowler, 36, 315 E. Atlantic street, Appleton; Vance E. High, 33, 510 S. Main, Waupaca; and Jerold R. Orr, 39, route 3, Waupaca.

Failure to turn in a directed course cost $15.50 forfeitures for Lynn E. Olson, 61, 604 Racine street, Menasha, and George W. Hansen, 42, Oshkosh.

State Mental Service Chief Quits Post

Resignation Suggests Use of Pressure Possible

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — The resignation of Dr. Leslie Osborn, chief of the state's mental hygiene institutions and services, was made known here late Wednesday under circumstances strongly suggesting his departure is involuntary.

Wilbur Schmidt, director of the state department of public welfare, disclosed the retirement of the psychiatrist in a casual sentence at the end of a routine press release issued by his department.

It was learned, however, the resignation was received by the state board of public welfare earlier Thursday in an executive session. The board rarely has resorted to the executive session device to attain privacy, although for personnel matters a closed session is expressly permitted under state law.

Reports of Difficulties There had been numerous reports during the last two years about Osborn's difficulties with professional associates and with societies and groups in the professional fields related to mental hygiene services.

The Farms of Russia—III

Soviet Agriculture Still In Need of Much Equipment

Editor, Successful Farming Magazine

New York —(AP)—Mechanization on Soviet state and collective farms is still far behind the stage we consider necessary in the United States.

Much hand work is required on a Soviet farm, work that would almost always be done by machine in this country. Like consumer goods, farm machinery is scarce in the Soviet Union.

Some of the farm machinery I saw during my recent trip to Russia was fairly well built, but much larger than necessary for the job it was intended to do. For example, a crawler-type tractor would be used to pull a 3 or 4-bottom plow when it could just as well have been pulling a 6.

I visited a tractor factory and a combine factory. In both, working conditions were extremely poor. There were few if any safety devices. The lighting was poor, and many of the machine tools obsolete. Many of the foundry machines being used in the Soviet Union today were made in the United States.

A typical rundown of the machinery available on a 15,750-acre collective farm, where 1,850 families — 7,400 people — lived:

Mechanization included 24 tractors, 56 trucks and 2 cars. To help with the field work, 1350 horses and 35 oxen were also being used. Plows, discs and planters completed the mechanization.

A great deal of the field work is still being done by hand by both men and women. Harvesting of potatoes was in full swing during my visit and much of this was done with an ordinary hand fork. Much of the sugar beet harvesting is also done by hand.

There is a tremendous contrast between the machinery on display at the Moscow and Kiev agricultural exhibits and what you actually see on a farm in many instances. The machinery on display is brightly painted, often very similar to U.S. machines but usually much larger. A complete line of farm machinery is shown.

Versatile farm machinery is a big factor in America's huge agricultural production. How far has Soviet Russia advanced on the road to mechanization? The subject is discussed in the third of four articles by an American farm expert who recently toured the Soviet Union.

On the farms, much of this equipment is not in evidence. It appeared to me that the machinery on exhibition was there for two reasons. First, to show foreign visitors Soviet mechanization; second, to show the Soviet citizens what will be available in the future.

Impressive Display

I am sure the average American tourist visiting only these exhibits, and not getting out on farms, would be impressed with the variety of machinery available. Out on the farms, however, it is another story.

Mechanization of farmstead chores is barely beginning on the farms I visited. I did see some milking machines, but I also saw a great many women milking by hand. I saw dairy barn gutter cleaners, but I also saw the manure dumped from a gutter cleaner onto a flat-bed wagon. From there it is hauled to the fields and pitched off the wagon by hand. I never saw a refrigeration unit being used for milk cooling.

Feeding of livestock is almost always done by hand. There apparently are no augers, elevators, or blowers used to lighten the feeding chore. The one impressive mechanized feed mill I saw was a complete pelleting operation. It compared favorably with similar installations in this country.

The shortage of farm machinery is probably another result of Soviet concentration on other fields. Heavy industry, large hydroelectric dams, missile plants, and so forth are considered more important at present. Therefore, increased manufacture of farm machinery will have to wait until some future date.

Although it appeared to me that mechanization on Soviet farms was far behind that in the United States, there is apparently much more of it than just a few years ago. It will be interesting to watch Soviet progress in the next few years.

Across-the-Board Increase Tax Alternative Explained

Post-Crescent Staff Writer
Madison — If the legislature declines to enact a law providing a withholding tax system, Gov. Nelson has said his second choice for revenue raising is a flat three quarters of 1 per cent increase in each of the brackets of taxable income listed in the present income tax tables.

Most observers believe there is a greater likelihood of adoption of the rate revision proposal, in some form, than for approval of the withholding plan that was rejected by the senate in similar form earlier this year.

The bracket by bracket revision involves an approach to tax revision endorsed by other leaders in the past, including Sen. William Proxmire when he was a candidate for governor, and such past Republican governors as Oscar Rennebohm, Walter J. Kohler and Vernon W. Thomson.

Third of Series

Broader Base
If the state continues to rely on the individual income tax, many authorities see an advantage in broadening the base, provided by the across-the-board rate revision. The bulk of the taxable income of the state is in the lower brackets, because they include all earners, the high and the low. Because the state's income tax historically has been steeply progressive, a disproportionately high increase in yield can be obtained by a flat increase in all the rates. There also has been some evidence that the lower income earners of the state, according to recent studies, have been unduly favored in tax policy. In the past the state has

Surtax Reduction

Gov. Nelson has attempted to broaden the base of taxation, and to avoid further progressivity of rates, by applying the increase equally in each bracket and by reducing the presently effective 25 per cent surtax to 15 per cent.

One effect would be to maintain approximately the present maximum rate of taxation. The maximum tax bracket would continue to be $14,000 for the individual. Under present law, counting the 25 per cent surtax, the state takes 10.62 per cent of all taxable income over $14,000 earned by the individual in a single year.

Under the tax revision proposal, taking into account a 15 per cent surtax, the maximum tax would be 10.63 per cent on incomes over $14,000.

Lower Brackets

Conversely, the state now levies at a rate of 1.87 per cent, including the 25 per cent surtax, on the income bracket between $2,000 and $3,000. Under the revision proposal the rate in that bracket would be $2.58 per cent. The state now levies 4.37 per cent on income between $5,000 and $6,000. Under the revision it would collect 4.88 per cent.

The proportionately higher increases in the lower and middle brackets would be somewhat lightened by a liberalization of personal exemptions from $7 per person to $12. Thus in the case of a taxpayer with a large family, the increased exemptions permitted could very well wipe out the effect of the higher tax rate. It has not always been understood—or reported—clearly that the across-the-board revision would require higher tax payments from all taxpayers, regardless of their income bracket. The man earning $14,000 would find a three quarters of 1 per cent increase in tax rate in all of the brackets, even as would the man earning $6,000.

Few Quarrels

Among those who assume the incomes tax will continue to be a principal buttress of the state treasury—and of local treasuries through sharing receipts—there appears to be little quarrel with the idea of across-the-board revision.

Reliance on the surtax appears to have lessened, probably because the tax impact study shows that Wisconsin top rates safely cannot be increased significantly in view of the economic competition with other states.

The resistance to the rate revision proposal, as expressed in the current legislature, relates to timing rather than to the merits of the bill.

Studies Being Made

The state has set up extensive machinery to prepare the way for fundamental tax revision. A so-called "blue ribbon" citizens commission is engaged in the task, probing more deeply into tax problems than ever before. Some critics are concerned that if the legislature revises the income tax rates now—even if Gov. Nelson describes such action as "stop-gap"—the tendency will be to keep them at the new levels and in the new distribution pattern regardless of the findings of the tax study commission. This school insists that the legislature should wait until the study report is available, since the tax revision proposed won't take effect until the 1960 tax income year and won't be payable until April, 1961.

Interception Experts Meet In 'Rose' Tilt

Huskies, UW Have Picked Off 50 Aerials Between Them

By The Associated Press
Space age jargonists use the term "anti-missile missile." In college football it's called pass interceptions and two of the nation's best at it are the Rose bowl rivals, Washington and Wisconsin.

If the game at Pasadena Jan. 1 follows form, these two teams will be plucking off each other's passes all afternoon.

Pick Off 27
Washington has two of the individual pass interception leaders, George Fleming and Bob Schloredt, six each. As a team, the Huskies picked off 27 enemy passes, only one less than the national leader in this department, Virginia Military.

Wisconsin was close behind. The Badger secondary plucked off a total of 23. The National Collegiate Athletic bureau, scanning through its college figures Wednesday, decided this is some plucking.

Fleming and Schloredt are not alone as national leaders in the pass-pilfering department. They share the title with Bud Whitehead of Florida State, Bob Cyphers of Dayton and Tony Banfield of Oklahoma State, who also had six interceptions each.

Tokyo — Leo Espinosa, 123, Philippines, outpointed Yukio Katsumata, 124, Japan, 10.

Bart Starr, Who Has guided the Green Bay Packers to three straight wins, is expected to start at quarterback at San Francisco Sunday in the season's finale.

Golembiewski Vaults Into Bowling Lead

Averages 219 Per Game in World Invitational Test

Chicago — The World Invitational Bowling tournament moved into the last half of the final rounds today with 30-year-old Billy Golembiewski in the top spot.

Golembiewski, a member of the ABC champion Pfeiffers team of Detroit, was the big gun in Wednesday's firing in the $30,000 tourney in the Chicago coliseum.

Sixteen more games are scheduled today and the final 16 on Friday, with part of the shooting to be televised nationally Friday night. (9 p.m., CST, NBC.)

Golembiewski vaulted from third place into the lead. He averaged nearly 240 as he won 12 of 16 games in the second day of match competition.

Sweeps Series
Billy G., as the fans call him, was red-hot in the final hour games Wednesday night, sweeping the series from Billy Welu of St. Louis with a 903 series on games of 215, 237, 224 and 227. Welu, all-star champion from St. Louis, posted 736.

Golembiewski, with 211 games won and 104 lost, had 16,40 Peterson points. In the first 32 games he totaled 7,015 for an average of 219 per game.

In second place was Ray Bluth of St. Louis who won 12 of 16 games as he moved from eighth place to runnerup. He had 21 wins and 11 losses and 159.33 points.

Lou Frantz of Louisville, Ky., the leader after the first 16 games, dropped to third with a 20-12 record and 154.41 points.

In the women's division, Mrs. Olga Gloor, 39-year-old Chicago housewife, held her lead as she continued her sensational shooting. She has won 12 games and lost four, has 79.03 points and has averaged 209 for 16 games. The women bowl only eight games a day.

Closest to Mrs. Gloor was Donna Zimmerman, a 26-year-old typist from Akron, Ohio, who had 74.35 points and was averaging a shade under 203.

Beloit College '5' Tips Ripon, 68-64

By The Associated Press
Beloit opened Midwest conference basketball competition Wednesday night with a 68-64 victory over Ripon.

Dennis Hodge set the scoring pace for Beloit with 20 points while Dick Papke was high man for Ripon with 24.

Fights Last Night

Cleveland — Solomon Boy saw, 135, Cleveland, outpointed Candy McFarland, 140, Philadelphia, 10. Pete Rademacher, 200, Columbus, Ga., outpointed Johnny York, 205, Norristown, Pa., 8.

Bothered by Cut
The 27-year-old Besmanoff, German-born, but now fighting out of Milwaukee, said glumly:

"That cut over the left eye bothered me from the first round, but I still thought I could go the distance and probably beat him. He was punching himself out and I thought I could come on."

Liston, 27, of Philadelphia, started slowly, relying on sharp lefthand punches which caught Besmanoff with regularity. The 210-pound Liston was nine pounds heavier than Besmanoff.

Liston now has won 26 of 27 fights.

Jim Taylor May Miss 49er Game for 2nd Time This Season

Fullback Working Hard to Overcome Hip Injury; Dan Currie Has Damaged Knee

BY ART DALEY
Post-Crescent News Service
Palo Alto, Calif. — Jim Taylor sat in the Packer dressing room back in Green Bay an hour before the first 49er game last Oct. 11 and moaned softly.

"I really hate to miss this game. I could run over that Jerry Tubbs all day," Taylor snorted. He had just received the word that the burns on his hand and foot would keep him inactive. He had dressed anyway, in hopes that some miracle would change Dr. H. S. Atkinson's mind. But Taylor missed the next four games.

Now it's two months later and Jim's got a chance to run on Tubbs—this time before nearly 60,000 in San Francisco's Kezar stadium Sunday afternoon.

But Taylor may not play again. "He could miss it," said Vince Lombardi, referring to the hip injury Jim sustained late in the first quarter of the Ram game. He went almost the entire distance and scored two touchdowns, anyway.

Taylor was hurting in Tuesday's practice but he was feeling better Wednesday. The burly fullback says he'll be ready and he's trying hard to overcome the "point" on his hip. He ran on one play while seemingly in pain and Bobby Dillon yelled, "that away to get it out, Jim."

Field Day
Taylor had his field day against Tubbs in the 49er game here a year ago and also a couple of times against him in college ball. He rolled for 119 yards in his first start as a rookie at Kezar in '58.

If Jim is hurting to the point of being slowed down, Lew Carpenter will take his spot at fullback. Lew did the same in the 21-20 victory over the 49ers in Green Bay and gained close to 90 yards.

The only other injured player is Dan Currie, the sophomore linebacker who has a damaged knee. He likely will be ready but as a precaution, Ray Nitschke has been working some in his position.

Returning Sunday will be Tom Bettis who has his bad knee cured. Bettis stayed out of his middle linebacker spot in Los Angeles while Nitschke.

Prospects for something to go on the winning side of the ledger appear dim for at least the immediate future.

The Scots, too, have played one game outside the conference. They took on Bradley university—the nation's twelfth-ranked team in a news service poll this week—

Here's one for that magazine which carries the "Add Similes" department:

"As tough as trying to beat Manitowoc on its own basketball floor."

If you don't believe that's a thorn-coated challenge, you might check with Appleton High school and its cage coach, Dick Emanuel.

Once in 6 Tries
Emanuel has led an AHS team into the Manty gym as many times as Norman Thomas has run for president (six), and the Terrors have been only slightly more successful.

An Emanuel — directed Terror contingent makes its seventh invasion of the Shipbuilder gym Friday night for a clash with the twice — in-a-row Fox River Valley conference champions.

The winner will join the survivor of the Sheboygan civil war (Central vs. North) as the only unbeaten teams in FRVC competition. For other traditional games Friday, Green Bay East visits West, and Oshkosh travels to Fond du Lac.

Ordinarily the home court is considered worth six points or so. But, in Manitowoc's case, it must be more valuable than that, judging by the Ships' overwhelming success at home in recent years.

While new spacious gyms keep sprouting up all over the state prep scene, Manitowoc's "spidery" quint continues to invite "flies" into its own unique sports parlor.

Friday, the AHS team hopes to take on something of the dimensions of the famous movie "Fly" and throttle the Ships in their own cozy little establishment.

Scrimmage Vike Frosh

Sawchuck Scores His 4th Shutout

By The Associated Press
Terry Sawchuk, 29-year-old Detroit goal tender, has turned the race for the National Hockey league's Vezina trophy into a 3-man affair.

The trophy, awarded annually to the net minder with the lowest against goals, has been won the last four seasons by Montreal's Jacques Plante. Plante is setting the pace with a 2.04 average.

But Johnny Bower of Toronto has a 2.32 average and Sawchuk 2.33 after posting his fourth shutout of the season in Detroit's 2-0 victory over the Chicago Black Hawks Wednesday night. Sawchuk leads the league in shutouts. Plante and Bower have two each.

In chalking up the eighth shutout of his career and his second of the season over Chicago, Sawchuk kicked out 26 shots by the Hawks. Both Detroit goals came while Chicago was undermanned.

Ewbank Trying to Prevent Complacency in Colt Camp

San Francisco — "We'd be stupid to go down there not thinking it will be a tough game," declared Baltimore Coach "Weeb" Ewbank Wednesday as his Colts drilled for Saturday's game against the Los Angeles Rams.

Despite the fact the defending champion Colts lead the National Football league's Western division with an 8-3 record while the Rams stand 2-9, there is no complacency.

Ewbank held a lengthy movie and chalk talk session before sending his club onto the field.

"Remember," he said, "the Rams were picked to win this year. There just isn't an easy team in the National league."

Ewbank said every member of his 36-man squad is in shape to play with "only the customary bumps and bruises."

Defensive end Gino Marchetti also showed respect for the Rams saying, "that's a good football team. I wish we were playing somebody other than them."

The Colts leave Friday for Los Angeles.

Mississippi State's Win Streak Ends

Colorado, Army Quintets Also Suffer 1st Losses

By The Associated Press

No more All-America Bailey Howell and no more winning streak for Mississippi State in major college basketball. With Howell, the 6-7 scoring ace who led the way to a Southeastern conference crown, now graduated and playing pro ball, State's unbeaten string ended at 18 games with a 71-62 upset by Little Louisiana Tech Wednesday night.

A tight zone defense and a 43-point second half did it for Louisiana Tech.

Monmouth, Knox Invite Viking Court

and lost, 86-61. It was a respectable score against a powerhouse.

Monmouth, which Boys expects to be "big and rugged and a real good defensive team," blasted St. Olaf, 105-60, and thumped expected title contender Carleton, 80-60, last weekend. Knox is called by Lawrence's coach "a real good, smooth-working team which will make few mistakes."

Five Scorers
Five of the current top 16 conference scorers are Siwashers. This group includes: 6-5 senior Bill Graning (40 points); 6-0 junior Dan Littell (33 points); 6-0 sophomore Bob Hoffman (30); 6-2 senior Joe Pankus (28); and 6-0 senior Denny Geraghty (24).

Graning was the circuit's No. 3 scorer and a member of the all-MC team last season as the Siwashers rolled to the circuit crown by a 3-game margin over runnerup Grinnell. Knox shaded the Vikes, 72-69, in Appleton last winter and then walloped Lawrence, 96-72, in Illinois.

Monmouth has four men in the list of top 20 pointmakers. They are: Clair McRoberts, 6-5 junior who has tallied 39; Ken Mueller, 6-4 senior (27); John Allen 6-6 junior (21), and Carl Goff, 6-2 junior (21). McRoberts was all-conference second team last season.

Three Others
In addition to that group of giants, Coach Charles Larson has three other lettermen — two 6-2 and one 6-0. Monmouth nudged the Vikings, 58-53, here and 88-67 in Monmouth a year ago.

Against these powerhouses, Lawrence will lead with two small men — 5-9 "Chuck" Knoke and 5-8 Jim Schulze — plus a third fellow, 6-1 George Gray, who is also the "small-man" type because of his thinness.

The other starters will be 6-4 Jim Rasmussen and either 6-3 Joe Lamers or 6-2 Jim Jordan.

Lamers, the Kaukauna junior, was ailing early this week with a blood infection in his foot resulting from blister trouble.

To Be Ready
Boys expects him to be ready by Friday. Lamers, shunted a bit to the back-ground in pre-season planning, has fought his way into the first team picture. He has varsity experience and rebounding ruggedness and appears to have better scoring potential than soph forecourt-ers Marty Gradman and John Van Meter, his chief rivals.

Rebounding has been revealed as a definite Viking weakness thus far in the three losses — by 59-57 to Chicago, 75-71 to Grinnell and 91-57 to Coe.

Except for 6-4 Rasmussen and 6-5 Van Meter the Vikes have no real size. To compensate for this, rebounding aggressiveness will have to be developed or Lawrence will be getting beaten off the boards again this year.

Schulze Disappoints
Although Boys likes his playmaking and defensive work, Schulze has been a disappointment as a scorer thus far. He's tallied only 14 points in the first three games after hitting 34 in the opening, trio last year.

During his all-conference days in high school, Schulze was able to go home with a dozen points or so on fast-break baskets and free throws even though he never was much of an outside shot. He hasn't had a free throw attempt yet this year.

Hot-shot Gray sandwiched a 20-point spurge at Grinnell between a 2-point and 4-point mediocrities at Chicago and Coe. And, Rasmussen — who averaged over 18 points a game as a soph — has collected merely 32 thus far.

Only the hard-working Knoke (57 points) has revealed any scoring consistency. The enemy may start ganging up on the little hustler if he doesn't get help soon. The MC's top 10 scorers:

Big 10 Studies Rose Bowl Controls and Aid Program

Chicago — (U) — Rose bowl aid program and is expected to urge that the need factor for such aid be eliminated. He maintains that aid based on need has invited stepped-up outside recruiting.

A re-examination of the rules for voting is expected after each school's vote was expanded from one to two ballots at a private meeting Nov. 1.

Previously, only the faculty representative vote prevailed.

But, another 5-5 stalemate accounting for 10 ballots on kept a conference rule in the books permitting Rose bowl participation. That means any Big Ten school could accept an invitation without conference sanction.

Decide on Split
Athletic directors and faculty representatives now must consider Rose bowl controls so no single team could hog the trips if an invitation is extended and also decide on a split of the money.

Calls LSU Star Best Griddler In Country

New York — (U) — Billy Cannon, Louisiana State's All-America halfback, heads back to Baton Rouge today taking with him the accolades of Vice President Richard M. Nixon who presented him with the Heisman trophy Wednesday night.

"He may not be the best runner, kicker, passer, tackler or pass receiver," Nixon told a nationwide radio audience and hundreds assembled at the Downtown Athletic club, "but Billy Cannon is the best football player in the United States today."

Nixon described him as "not an ordinary Cannon, but an atomic Cannon, the ultimate weapon in the arsenal of Paul Dietzel, LSU coach."

One LSU official wondered aloud if Cannon will now be able to settle down and prepare for the Sugar bowl game against Mississippi on New Year's day.

He has already been honored as an All-America halfback on The Associated Press' 1959 honor counts in the Sherwood Sportsmen's circuit. Harbor bar (26-13) holds a 3-game league lead.

put on defense. After allowing 74 points in a 3-overtime game at Kimberly, the Terrors have held the opposition to an average of only 46 points in winning three straight games.

A comparable defensive effort will be needed Friday night. In each of the last three seasons, the John Jung-coached Ships have scored 70 or more points at home against AHS, and Manty's home average in the last six years against the Terrors is a plush 69 points.

Scores 70 and 66
Thus far this season, Manitowoc has scored 70 and 66 points, respectively, in wins over Green Bay East and Menasha while managing only 36 in a stall-laden loss to Two Rivers (50-36).

The Terror offense could probably stand a little priming. Since scoring 72 points against Kimberly, AHS has averaged 56.3 in the last three games.

Jung's Ships have been the FRVC's most successful team in the last five years. Manty won clear titles the last two seasons and a co-championship in 1954-5. In addition, the Ships tied for second behind champion AHS in 1956-7.

Jung has a knack of molding a winning combination around one pace-making performer. Last year, the key individual was Dick Hall (now a Michigan State freshman). The year before that, it was Bill Nelson (now a UW sophomore). And three years ago, it was Greg Ripp (now a Marquette junior).

Meany Leads Way
The heir-apparent to the sharpshooter's mantle is Paul Meany. A 6-5 junior, Meany has averaged 17.6 this season despite getting few shots and scoring only eight against Two Rivers. Tall Paul netted 26 against Green Bay East in little more than three quarters of action and also dominated the rebounding. Meany averaged 11 points per game against Appleton as a sophomore.

Letterman Art Neillitz has been the Ships' second most reliable scorer—with a 13.3 average to date. Another tough customer is Al Zipperer, who became a regular in late season last year.

Juniors Bob Savage and Paul Buege are the other two possible starters against AHS. Emanuel is expected to open with the same starting unit for the fifth straight time: Ron Abel (the team's leading scorer), at center; Marty Schultz and Paul Vander Heyden, forwards; and Dave LaViolette and Pete Treiber, guards.

Sophomore guard Mike Lee has been working out with the varsity this week. It is probable he will suit up for the varsity game Friday. In four games of junior varsity ball this season, Lee averaged 21.3 points.

Colts are Favored By 10 Over Rams

Victory Saturday Would Cinch Undisputed Title for Baltimore

Los Angeles — (U) — Coachmore the Colts beat the Sid Gillman of the Los Angeles Rams, 35-21, but the Rams, es Rams has several grave with a makeshift lineup, kept problems to face, the most it close until the fourth quarter, immediate being the Baltimore Colts here Saturday.

The Rams have a miserable record of nine defeats and only two victories, and are 10-point underdogs to lose their eighth straight when the Colts move into Memorial coliseum in the final game of the National Football league regular schedule.

Gillman is also fully aware that his job may vanish but he is working as hard as ever for this one coming up.

He isn't the type to concede a victory to any team but he does suspect that the Colts as the defending NFL champions are the best team in the league and will so reign for another year.

Too Many Guns
"The Colts," said Gillman today, "have too many guns. And in Johnny Unitas, well, to my mind, he is as great as any quarterback the NFL ever had."

Baltimore shellacked the erstwhile pace-setting San Francisco 49ers last Sunday, 34-14. Victory here will set up the Western division title and send the Colts into the championship with the already Eastern division winners, the New York Giants.

A loss here, coupled with a 49er triumph over Green Bay at San Francisco, would necessitate a 49er-Colt playoff. Three weeks ago in Baltimore,

For whatever value, last year the Rams, after taking a 34-7 licking at Baltimore, threw a scare into the Colts' title hopes by trimming them, 30-28, here in the rematch.

Saturday's game will be televised nationally.

Wilt Outplays Russell Again

Scores 39 Points But Philadelphia Loses to Celtics

By The Associated Press
Philadelphia's Wilt Chamberlain still leads Boston's Bill Russell in their personal duel. But the standings show Boston with a 4-game bulge over Philadelphia.

Chamberlain, obviously handicapped by an injured foot, outscored Russell, 39-23, and out-rebounded the Boston ace, 20-19, Wednesday night but the Celtics defeated the Warriors, 137-116, in the second half of a doubleheader at Boston. Jack Twyman tallied 38 points in leading the Royals to a 129-119 triumph over Detroit in the first half of the twin bill. Syracuse moved within a game of Philadelphia by beating Minneapolis, 93-89, at Seattle.

Cousy Hits 18
The Celtics got another top performance from Bob Cousy, who ended up with 18 points but was topped by Frank Ramsey (29), Tommy Heinsohn (20) and Russell. Rookie Dick Barnett dropped in 10 points in the last quarter as the Nationals pulled away from Minneapolis. Elgin Baylor had one of his poorer nights for the Lakers with only 17 points. Rookie Rudy Larusso topped the Lakers with 22.

Report That Yankees Will Obtain Outfielder Maris From Athletics

BY FRANK CRAWFORD.

Kansas City, Mo. — (U) — It looks as if the Kansas City Athletics and the New York Yankees are about to do business again with Roger Maris moving his locker to Yankee stadium.

The Yankees and the A's didn't announce any barter agreement at the major league meeting just ended but the signs are unmistakable. "Casey" is lamenting the fact that no one in either league will offer enough for some Yankee veterans. He wants a left-handed pitcher, he says, as well as a left-handed hitting outfielder.

"We didn't make a deal," "Casey" told newsmen Wednesday. "But we certainly tried. We talked with every club in the two leagues. We made some pretty good offers but you should have seen the players the other clubs wanted to give us in return."

Isn't New
This state of affairs isn't new to "Casey" and his employers. They haven't made a trade with any major league club except the Kansas City A's since September, 1957.

Ernest Mehl, sports editor of the Kansas City Star, who was at the winter meetings, reported both the Yankees and the A's had been probing other sources of supply. The Yankees haven't found anything. The A's had only limited success in deals with Cincinnati, Pittsburgh and Boston.

In their latest swap Wednesday, the Athletics sent veteran catcher-infielder Hal Smith to Pittsburgh for two minor leaguers, pitcher Dick Hall and shortstop Ken Hamlin.

"It is entirely possible that the Yankees are prepared to make the A's a strong bid for Maris, who would fit in ideally with their plans of regaining prestige next year," Mehl wrote.

Mehl speculated that the Yankees would trade pitcher Don Larsen and outfielders Hank Bauer and Norm Siebern for Maris.

Powell, who is hitting around .280 while being converted into a first baseman, has four homers. In his biggest day, he hit three singles, a double and a triple in five at-bats.

the triple A Miami club next spring.

Observers estimate that Saverine and Chance, among others, should be in the majors in about two years — while Nicholson should make it even sooner than that.

Nicholson, who received a bonus payment of more than $100,000, was hitting around .330 at last report, with five homers and more than 30 runs batted in. He hit two homers in one game and had a bases-loaded job in another.

Saverine was hitting at .313, with 21 RBIs. He, too, came up with two homers in a game. Three times in recent games, the speedy infielder stole a pair of bases in the same game.

Home Run Leader
Hinton, the 1959 Northern league batting champion, was hitting around .285 at last report and leading the club in homers with six.

Powell, who is hitting around .280 while being converted into a first baseman, has four homers. In his biggest day, he hit three singles, a double and a triple in five at-bats.

The 18-year-old Chance has a 6-4 mound record with a 3.23 ERA of around 3.2. Good control has held his walks down to an average of two a game, and he has struck out an average of five a game.

The Winter league will conclude its season shortly. Willis announces that the Foxes have purchased the contract of pitcher Alex Castro, from the Cuban Giants. The 6-foot-4 Alex is a brother of Julian Castro, who played for the Foxes for a time in 1958. It is likely Alex will be optioned to a C or D club at the start of the '60 season.

During the winter meetings, the Three-I league voted to extend its 1960 schedule from 126 games — as originally planned — to 140. The season will open April 24 (with the Foxes on the road) and will close Sept. 8 — three days later than originally scheduled.

The Foxes trailed, 18-15, at the half en route to their sixth victory in seven starts. Freshman Verlyn Dobberstein hit three fielders and nine of 10 free throws for 15 points and game honors. The Foxes converted 16 of 22 foul tosses.

Schloreth Named Top Football Player on Coast

Los Angeles —(U)— Quarter-back Bob Schloreth of the University of Washington Tuesday won the 1959 W. J. Voit memorial trophy as the top football player on the West coast.

The one-eyed signal caller got 110 first-place votes in balloting by sportswriters and TV-radio sportscasters to win by a wide margin.

Badger '11' Won't Practice Till Monday

Madison —(U)— Wisconsin's football players will get a few more days of rest before they start practice for the Rose bowl game at Pasadena on New Year's day.

Coach Mill Bruhn said Wednesday night that he would not call his team back for practice until next Monday. He had planned to resume training sessions today.

Extensive drills will be held from Monday through Friday of next week, probably in the Memorial building. The 44-man player squad will leave for the west coast on Saturday, Dec. 19, via chartered plane. About 10 or 11 workouts are planned at Pasadena where the Badgers meet Washington in the Rose bowl classic.

Packers' Taylor Could Miss 49er Fray Again

Tittle to Start

Incidentally, 49er Coach "Red" Hickey said the other day that Tittle will start vs. Green Bay regardless of how the Colt-Ram game Saturday comes out. If the Colts win, the 49ers are out of the championship. Tittle suffered a bad knee injury two weeks ago.

Speaking of injuries, Ron Kramer got a nasty crack in the forehead when going out for a pass in Wednesday's practice. He rolled on the ground in front of John Symank and his head bounced off John's knee. He'll be ready for action.

Kramer was used for about a quarter against the Rams, spelling Gary Knefel who was a bit woozy from the Rams fist fighters. Lombardi said later that "he played better than he has yet this season."

Kramer is breaking in some as a field goal kicker. Moving pictures of the kicking of Ron and Jerry Kramer and Paul Hornung were taken Wednesday for off-season study. All three were booting the ball high into a giant eucalyptus tree that shadowed the goal posts.

Bill Quinlan, down in bed with the flu Tuesday, returned to the practice wars Wednesday. "The flu I had would kill the average man," Bill explained.

Sprint Out

The Packers sprinted into the current season and they're going to sprint out. Lombardi has the team sprinting at the windup of each practice this week (except Saturday's) just as he has during the entire campaign. Sprinting is rough on Tuesdays but they were "letting it out" again yesterday. The Bays are on their twenty-first week of sprinting — which is why they are in such tremendous physical condition. That fine tuning paid off in the first half heat against the Rams. Most of the second half was played in the shade.

All three offensive tackles got "something" in Los Angeles. Bob Skoronski ripped his forehead open in an accident in warming up before the game. During action, Forrest Gregg hit his hip, which is okay now, and Norm Masters got a gouge on the forehead. Skoronski also got an awful looking shiner out of it. The 49ers are 6-point favorites Sunday and that's the State's engineering department first time they've been so honored since they played the A 1915 graduate of Ohio Lions out here. # Conservation Quarters Dispute Flares Again

Commission Refuses to Pay Rent for Offices Taken for It at Governor's Insistence

Madison — (P) — The state conservation commission today renewed its controversy with the governor's office over changing the department's location from the state office building to east side quarters.

The commission declined approval of a $3,350 bill for two months rental of a downtown building. The department had been told to occupy the building and the commission voiced stern opposition. Plans for using that building were dropped when the governor's office came up with the east side location.

The department moved Nov. 1 to new quarters it is expected to occupy until permanent offices are established in a planned new state office building.

No Legal Authority
Commissioner Charles Smith, Wausau, moved that the rent bill be returned unpaid to the executive office.

Emil Kaminski, commission legal counsel, advised the commission it had no authority to pay the rent.

Leonard J. Seyberth, Eau Claire, outgoing commissioner, said he was opposed to using department money for paying rent on the unused building, adding he felt these funds should not be used for any part of state government reorganization.

Seyberth and A. W. Schorger, Madison, participated in their last meeting. Appointed under Republican administration, they are to be succeeded by Paul J. Olson, Madison, and John Lynch, Gordon, if the state senate confirms appointments.

Pheasant Ruling
The commission gave its approval to a trial pheasant management program to allow clubs to release pheasants on property not open to the public.

In another action the commission approved acquisition of 4,591 acres of wetlands and fishing grounds at a cost of $248,189. Purchase of a 747-acre parcel in Marquette County was delayed because of a local objection.

The commission approved

Clean Cranberry Total Mounts

Washington — (P) — A total of 29,581,600 pounds of cranberries and cranberry products were cleared as of noon Tuesday by food and drug administration laboratories.

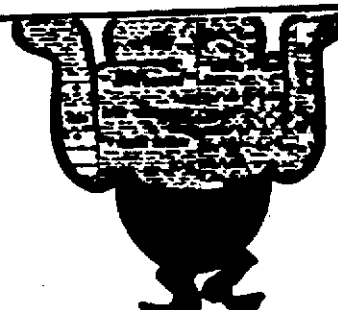

Twenty-five seizure actions had been instituted up to that time against contaminated lots totaling 310,800 pounds of berries and products, an FDA spokesman said.

Secretary of Welfare Arthur S. Flemming announced Nov. 9 some cranberries grown this year in the Pacific Northwest had been found contaminated with residues of the chemical weed killer aminotriazole. He added aminotriazole had been found to cause cancer in rats.

A nationwide testing program then was set up by FDA.

Bounty Payment Bill Put Before Governor

Assembly Passes Senate-Approved Measure by Over Two to One Margin

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — The restoration of a wild animal predator bounty program financed by state fish and game funds is now squarely up to Gov. Gaylord Nelson, the only political figure in the capitol who has thus far refrained from comment on the controversial question.

The assembly Tuesday by a margin of more than two to one concurred in a senate-approved measure that will restore cash bounties on coyotes, foxes and bob-cats, at a cost of about $250,000 a year, the money to be taken out of the state conservation fund rather than partly out of general tax funds as formerly.

tried to sidetrack demands for bounty legislation, after the governor pointedly omitted bounty funds from his own budget recommendations.

But pressure grew too heavy to resist, and members of both political parties hastily joined the bounty advocates in votes in both houses during the last week.

The assembly vote was by the top-heavy majority of 65 to 27.

City Democrats generally ridiculed the idea that paying for the destruction of foxes will have a significant effect upon their numbers, drawing upon the testimony of the game biologists of the conservation department who have consistently protested bounties as both futile and wasteful.

But rural and northern Democrats, worried about the next election campaign and noting the eagerness of Republican rivals on the question, insisted upon a restoration of the payments that had been made for decades before the suspension of the appropriation in the 1957 legislature.

Expected to Sign
Gov. Nelson is fully aware of the conservation department's reservations on the worth of bounties, and its opposition to the proposed diversion of a substantial amount of its receipts for the payment of rewards for the trapping or shooting of the animals.

But it is generally expected that the governor will sign the bill, if only because the legislature's voting thus far strongly suggests that the bill can be passed over his veto.

Legislators during debate repeatedly charged that the decline in the numbers of pheasants and other small game this fall which was reflected in lower license sales resulted from the depredations of record numbers of foxes. Coyotes and bob-cats are relatively scarce.

Los Angeles — Pensions are wonderful things, says former Gov. Goodwin Knight, for governors as well as garden variety citizens.

Knight, 63, is eligible to become California's highest paid state pensioner—at $16,000 a year. He said yesterday he plans to get his application in to the State Employees Retirement association before the end of this month so he won't miss his first retirement check.

Knight thinks the pension is a good idea because it "enables a governor to resist

Home Work Racket Popularity Grows

BY LOUIS J. LEFKOWITZ
Atty. General, State of New York
The hopeful expectant mother read the advertisement eagerly:

"Would you like to work spare time at home? Easy money, very good pay. We have a tremendous backlog of unfilled orders for hand-knitted garments."

Similar ads were read by others—an ailing widow, a paraplegic—all as anxious as the young expectant mother to earn extra dollars to supplement limited income.

Sylvia Porter is on vacation.

How many millions of dollars were collected by the heartless promoters of such frauds may never be known. For the average American is reluctant to admit he's been swindled.

Shut-ins Bilked
But shut-ins sent $6,000,000 to one promoter selling hosiery knitting machines. The victims were not able to sell any hosiery. They were left with costly machines of no use to them.

In the words of Hugh R. Jackson, president of the New York City Better Business bureau:

"It is hard to imagine any form of chicanery more heartless than this."

Representatives of Marjay Sales company on Long Island promised to buy finished knitted garments from housewives who bought knitting machines for $435 each. The trusting women were assured:

Payment Plan
"You can pay for the machine out of money earned from sale of the garments to us."

The women signed sales contracts and worked long hours to produce knitted articles which were rejected in almost every instance because they were "imperfect."

The $435 machine, it developed, cost the promoters only $35.

The Bureau of Consumer Frauds and Protection in the attorney general's office dissolved Marjay. But many victims could not be helped because the sales contracts had been sold to a finance company which insisted it acquired them in good faith, and demanded payment. We are, nevertheless, trying to obtain some relief for these victims.

Men Also Involved
Women are not alone in being victimized by work-at-home racketeers. Men prove just as gullible.

Men fell for a show card painting scheme which yielded promoters $500,000 before it was stopped by the post office department and the Better Business bureau.

Men seeking to add to their limited incomes by working in their spare time were victimized by a floor-waxing scheme. The men were required to purchase expensive floor-waxing equipment on the promise they would earn as much as $8 per hour. Of course, none of them was able to earn this money and they were left with a useless piece of equipment.

And men were the targets of a photo-coloring promotion which cost 15,000 persons $500,000. The promoters, in every case, rejected all work because they said it failed to meet ambiguous and fraudulent specifications.

Many Legitimate
Reputable publications screen their want ads carefully. But it is impossible to detect every fraudulent scheme. There are many legitimate enterprises. A little inquiry by the consumer can quickly determine whether a firm is reputable.

Look for these warning signs:

1. Does the promoter demand money before you start work?
2. Does a glib door-to-door salesman insist you sign an "on approval" receipt for merchandise or appliances? There is nothing wrong with "on approval" business, but the reputable dealer will not pressure you into signing such contracts.

Avoid the heartache suffered by the housewife who told us:

Fast Talkers
"The salesman left a sewing machine with me, though I said I didn't want it, and talked me into signing a slip which he said was an 'on approval' receipt. He promised to come back in a day or two and take the machine back if I didn't want it. Instead, I got by mail a $240 sales contract and coupon book from a finance company and they won't even discuss the matter."

How can you help fight such frauds? Especially when you have been a victim and you don't want to admit you've been swindled?

My advice is to forget your pride and timidity. Protect yourself and your neighbor by cooperating with agencies which are fighting these cheats.

Don't hesitate to investigate organization which works to protect the consumer and have any doubt about a deal. Today's buying guide for consumers: Don't make any financial commitments which you cannot possibly meet. When buying on the installment plan, remember that if you fall behind in your payments, the seller usually has a legal right to repossess the merchandise and sell it for whatever it will bring to meet part or all of your remaining indebtedness. ## Pope Critical Of 'Romanticized' Stories in Press

Vatican City — Pope John XXIII Tuesday sharply criticized what he described as a "romanticized" press and said that it poisons youth. The 78-year-old head of the Roman Catholic church expressed his views in a special audience to Italian Catholic jurists holding a national congress in Rome. He urged parents, teachers, government officials, legisla-

Kimberly 1960 Budget Called Tightest Ever

Village President Warns Committees to Scrutinize Spending

Kimberly — Alvin Fulcer, village president, said the record $666,134 budget for 1960, approved Tuesday by the village board, will be the tightest under which the village has ever operated despite the $3 per $1,000 hike in tax rate.

Revenues have been brought as close as possible to the actual amount expected. Formerly revenues anticipated were kept well below actual receipts to permit latitude in the budget, Fulcer said.

This is a new way for Kimberly to operate, continued the president, and it will be up to committees to see departments stay within their budget. No surplus funds will be available for unspecified purchases when bargains arise or to carry out projects not listed in the budget, he indicated.

Turn Down Requests

Major fund requests for items not budgeted must be turned down by the committees and should never reach the regular board floor, continued Fulcer. He pointed out the village was no worse off than any other community but was embarking on a new phase of history by having to check funds closely.

We must become sharper operators all the way down the line as the growth of the community in recent years is beginning to affect financing, said Fulcer. He pointed to the importance of education funds in the budget and reminded of the need for additional school facilities in the future.

Broken down the $666,134 budget shows 44 per cent for school purposes, 24 per cent of state and county taxes, four per cent for bonds and interest payments, eight per cent for outlays and 20 per cent for general village operations.

Each $42 paid in taxes shows $29.40 going to the schools, $9.27 for county taxes, .58 cents for state taxes and $2.75 for village purposes.

Tax bills are to be mailed Dec. 31 and tax collection times, without penalty, will be from 8:30 to 11:30 a.m. and from 1 to 4:30 p.m. Non-investments at a breakfast days through Thursdays and from 8:30 to 11:30 a.m. and from 1 to 7 p.m. on Fridays. Saturday church Sunday morning, urday collections will be from 9 a.m. to 12 noon. Collections will start Jan. 2.

Junior Unit of Legion Women Sets Yule Fete

Little Chute — Christmas songs, games and entertainment is planned in conjunction with the annual Christmas party of junior members of the American Legion auxiliary to be held at 2 p. m. Saturday in the village hall. The 12-year-old group will discuss plans for carols they will sing for shut-ins of the community during their caroling rounds. Secret pals will exchange gifts and refreshments will be served under the direction of Mrs. Tony Van Wymeren.

Position Open On Police Force

Kaukauna — Applications for the position of police officer with the Kaukauna department are being accepted by the police and fire commission.

Blanks are available from the city clerk and must be filled out and returned to Arthur Kromer, Sr., committee chairman, by Jan. 1.

Applicants must be between the ages of 21 and 35, be at least 5-foot, 9-inches and weigh at least 160 pounds. The 5-man commission recommended a 1-man addition to the force to the common council after the chief of police had requested two additional men.

It is expected the successful applicant will begin duties sometime in January as additional funds have been appropriated in the 1960 budget to offset the additional wages required.

Teenage Kegling Honors Shared

Kaukauna — Roger Leick slammed a 198 game and Ken VandeHey rapped a 2-game series of 365 to lead teenage bowlers in Recreation Department league at Verbena's alleys.

Lucky Rollers hit an 886 game and 1,650 series. Lucky Rollers lead with a perfect 6-0 mark followed by the Beatniks with 3-3.

Holy Name Society of Holy Cross to Hear Talk on Investments

Kaukauna — Joseph Ferris, a representative of Loewi and Company, Appleton, Investors, will speak on investments at a breakfast meeting of the Holy Name society of Holy Cross Catholic church Sunday morning, 1 to 7 p.m. on Fridays. Men will receive communion at the 7:30 a.m. mass prior to the breakfast.

Pattern of Sun Still Not Changed

Snow squalls whirled over western upstate New York today, and some snow flurries sifted onto New England.

The heavier snow accumulations hit the area east of Lake Ontario where Boonville, N.Y., reported 14 inches on the ground.

The northeast had the only wintry aspect on the weather map, although it was cold in northern Minnesota and the higher mountain stations of the Rockies. International Falls, Minn., recorded a low of 1 degree above zero.

Reds Expect Electronics to Run Production

Automated Lines To Go to Work by 1965, Magazine Says

New York—Russia expects to put into operation by 1965 more than 1,300 electronically-automated production lines, reports Electronics magazine.

Vladimir Lukin, Soviet vice chairman of the State Committee on Automation and Machine Building, claims the Russians have developed instruments that numerically record production processes and direct them automatically. He also declared that high-speed electronic recording and control devices would find extensive industrial use soon, and that a highly automated "electrotechnical work" will shortly be built near Moscow.

Russian proposals for setting up a schedule for working towards electronic automation in its various industries must be submitted to the council of ministers before Dec. 1.

Full 7-Year Plan

Electronics is slated to provide a major contribution to the fulfillment of Premier Nikita Khrushchev's 7-year plan, the object of which is to increase per capita labor productivity while easing working conditions and reducing the work week at the same time.

The master plan for Soviet automation goes far beyond the technical problems of introducing electronically-controlled machine tools and industrial process controls. It calls for appropriate agencies to give advance information this year on the specific character of economic effects in individual industries.

Involved in the plan are research, development, production and applications engineering. Besides boosting the Soviet economy by automated production, the plan also has as its objectives increased entertainment electronics production in line with new emphasis on consumer goods and new achievements and prestige for Soviet scientists.
